Jones Bill to Prevent Deal Amended and Reported Out by Commerce Committee

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Sale of the former German ships now held by the Shipping Board is prohibited "until provision is made for a definite policy for the sale of the ships" by Congress, under the terms of the Jones bill, favorably reported out by the Senate Commerce Committee today.

The bill provides against the sale of both passenger and freight vessels acquired from Germany and directs the Shipping Board to immediately recondition the ships in the manner which will make them most serviceable.

The Jones bill was amended by the committee by a vote of 10 to 3 to make the sale of all the ships impossible until Congress has determined on a policy. The original bill provided that sale of particular ships should not be authorized.

The vote on the amendment to hold all the ships until the United States determines its shipping policy was as follows:

BISHOP SAYS GRUMBLING WON'T CHANGE WEATHER

Bishop Herman Page of Spokane in his noon address today at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul told the congregation not to think that they can change New England weather. "Get used to it," said the bishop. "Trust it. There is no use going around grumbling about it. If you have anything like faith and trust in life you will trust the weather that it will come out all right in the end."

Text of Bill in the Senate to Stop Sale of Ships

"That the passenger and combination freight and passenger ships acquired by the United States from Germany shall not be sold except as may hereafter be provided by law, establishing a definite shipping policy, and the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation is hereby authorized and directed to repair and recondition said ships without delay in such manner as will in its judgment make them most serviceable for profitable operation or sale and pay for the same out of the revenues derived from the operation and sale of ships under its control or other available funds."

BAR PRISONERS AT HANGING

Chicago Slayer Executed, But Sheriff's "Moral Lesson" Is Called Off

By International News Service

Chicago, Feb. 20.—"Smiling Jack" O'Brien was hanged in the county jail here at 10:46 a. m. Friday, for the murder of Richard Burke, a Chicago policeman. Prisoners in the jail were not permitted to see the hanging, a procedure that had been planned by Sheriff Peters as a "moral lesson," but which he abandoned after being warned that such a course would cause him to be prosecuted for malfeasance.

Until the last O'Brien maintained what he charged in an eleventh hour statement several days ago—that he did not kill the policeman, but stood trial for the murder to save "Sonny" Dunn, a police character, whom he charged with the murder.

He declared that in return for this Dunn had promised to "use his influence in high places" to obtain merely a short prison sentence for him.

Shortly before O'Brien's execution the Grand Jury asked Sheriff Peters that they be permitted to witness the hanging, and there was a delay of more than half an hour while they were reaching the jail. It is the first time in the history of Cook County that a Grand Jury has made such a request.

NEW BEDFORD MILLS CHARTER COTTON SHIP

The steamship Lake Worth has been chartered to take 6,500 bales of Egyptian cotton from Boston to New Bedford. Boston docks have been congested recently with thousands of bales of this cotton and the railroads have been unable to move it. Manufacturers in New Bedford were so eager to get the cotton that they chartered the steamship.

TWO KILLED IN DUBLIN BATTLE

Four Others Wounded in Attacks on British Military and Constabulary

London, Feb. 20.—Attacks were made against the British military and constabulary throughout all Dublin today, said a Central News dispatch from that city this afternoon.

Bands of armed men were reported to be roaming the city. The leaders were said to have planned attacks upon isolated military patrols.

Dublin, Feb. 20.—One British constable was killed and two others were wounded in a series of fierce attacks that were made against the police station here early today. The fighting began at 2 o'clock and about twenty shots were fired.

The fighting spread from the police barracks to the vicinity of Trinity College where a civilian was killed by flying bullets.

Two others were wounded. Three civilians were arrested by the troops.

Girl Who Jilted Suitor Here on Honeymoon

With the bride's name filed on two different marriage license blanks at Bridgeport, Ct., Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pugsley are in Boston today on their honeymoon.

The marriage was of a whirlwind nature, although the romance was of long standing.

Mrs. Pugsley was Miss Elisabeth F. Kinney of Bridgeport, blonde, a department store model, recently engaged to Albert L. Cowles of Barton, Vt. Cowles arrived to claim his bride.

While he was negotiating for a clergyman, along came Pugsley, traveling salesman and former suitor of the bride-elect.

Result: Miss Kinney changed her mind, and when Cowles returned his fiancee's name was Mrs. Pugsley.

The jilted suitor left for Vermont and the honeymooners for a wedding journey.

ADMIRAL VICTIM OF ANAEMIA

Peary Recently Underwent Blood Transfusion, But It Failed to Save Him

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, died at his home here early today after an illness of several weeks, as the result of pernicious anaemia.

Rear Admiral Peary had been suffering for nearly two years. A few weeks ago he underwent an operation for blood transfusion, but this failed to relieve him.

He submitted to the blood transfusion operation after physicians had decided it was his only hope for life, but though he rallied from the immediate effect of the operation it failed

Robbed Relatives of Dead by Fraud

By International News Service.

Falls Church, Va., Feb. 20.—Charged with the exploitation of America's hero dead, a man giving the name of Vernon A. Callar is under arrest here today. He is alleged to have secured lists of Americans who died in France, after which he notified relatives that the soldier was not dead, but was in this country awaiting funds to pay for his transportation. It is alleged that Callar received sums as high as $100 from many relatives.

LEAP 2 STORIES FROM FIRE

Mother and Son Escape Serious Injury in North Attleboro Blaze

North Attleboro, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Edward Ryan and her son Edward leaped from the second story window in the King building, East and Elm streets, today when a fire which threatened the business section was discovered by Frank C. Becker, motorman on a snow plough. Neither was seriously injured.

The fire was confined to the King building, damage being estimated at $3,500. The street floor was occupied by Jacob Klietneser, shoe dealer, and John O'Neil's periodical store, and the second floor consists of apartments. The building is owned by the Martin King estate.

DENY PROTEST BY U. S. IN WAR GUILT TRIAL

Washington, Feb. 20.—The State Department today denied that there has been any American protest of the demands of the Allies for trial of German war leaders. It was stated that inasmuch as this country had not ratified the peace treaty it could not protest against action which was taken under the terms of the treaty.

"THE ANSWER TO ULSTER"
By Edward F. McSweeney—BOSTON AMERICAN—Tuesday, February 24th

LEVIATHAN, MIGHTIEST OF WAR PRIZES, OPERATED BY BRITISH

New York, Feb. 20.—Facts are here presented indicating that the Leviathan, mightiest ship in the world and richest of the German war prizes seized by the United States, has actually been under control of the International Mercantile Marine since December 17, 1919. Although ostensibly under control of the United States Shipping Board, the gigantic vessel, which was to have been sold to British-controlled interests for a song, virtually has been in the hands of the International Mercantile Marine for almost two months.

IN CONTROL DECEMBER 17.

Documentary evidence shows that an agreement was entered into December 17, whereby the International Mercantile Marine became the agents of the Leviathan.

On the pay roll(der of J. Roberts, an American, who served as a timekeeper on the ship and who was one of four Americans discharged in the steward's department following the publication in the Boston American that the Leviathan has been flying the company's flag, there appears the following:

"International Mercantile Marine Company.

"A. R. Marshall, auditor, construction department, as agents S. S. Leviathan, per contract dated December 17, 1919, United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation."

Additional facts concerning the International Mercantile Marine control within the Boston American presents today, are:

1—For more than a month the Leviathan has flown the House flag of the International Mercantile Marine from her mainhead.

2—During that time the flag of the shipping board has not appeared from her mast on a single occasion.

3—Although the shipping board has paid the wages of the crew out of the United States government funds, the cashier has honored no vouchers which have not borne the approval of the auditor of the International Mercantile Marine.

4—The International Mercantile Marine has refused to honor shipping board passes to the Leviathan or its pier.

5—The International Mercantile Marine has discharged one by one, American-born members of the crew and has retained Britishers.

If You Are a Real American, Sign This

To the Congress of the United States:

I appeal to the members of Congress to use their influence with President Wilson to halt the proposed sale of thirty former German ships.

Further, I petition that there be a most thorough and full investigation of every important fact covering the proposed sale. This investigation should most thoroughly probe the report that the Shipping Board plans to sell these ships, including some of the largest and finest steamships afloat, for $28,000,000, which is declared to be but one-third of their real value.

I desire to ask why cannot the government itself operate these fine ships rather than sacrifice two-thirds of their value?

KEEP SHIPS UNDER U. S. FLAG, SAYS YOUNG

Editor Boston American.

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of February twelfth in regard to the proposed sale by the United States Shipping Board of the German merchant fleet. I have no knowledge of the facts, but I do not hesitate to express my opinion that the fleet should be sold, if at all, at the highest possible price which can be obtained after wide publicity, and that the sale should be on condition that the ships continue to be operated under American registry and not under any foreign flag.

I cannot believe that the President would countenance any other action in the premises, but the case certainly calls to the President's own words for "selfless publicity."

Very truly yours, R. L. YOUNG, Representative 13th Middlesex District.

HOW WILSON INDORSED SALE.

How President Wilson approved of the selling of the ex-German liners was related by Chairman John Barton Payne of the Shipping Board to (house Merchant Marine Committee today. Replying to a letter from the chairman of the board, requesting his judgment, President Wilson informally said he would sustain the action of the board. When the board's resolution to sell the ships was sent to the President, Chairman Payne said the President wrote on it, "Action of the board approved."

Chairman Payne's letter requesting President Wilson's advice was written January 15. On it the Shipping Board head gave it as his opinion that the ships could not be operated by the government under prohibition regulation except at a loss, and that the government could get more for them now than later.

Chairman Payne declared that primarily the bids were asked for to find out "if we could sell the ships for a fair price."

In his letter to the President Mr. Payne admitted that the bids did not approximate what it would cost to build the same ships today.

Mr. Payne said the board's action was based on the ground that the future profitable government operation of the ships was problematical and on the belief that the prevailing high prices for tonnage were not assured for the future.

Continued government operation, he said, would require a large expenditure with a doubtful prospect of getting steady high returns.

"As I understand the situation, the Congress in 1916 fixed the policy that ships be not operated by the government," Chairman Payne said.

"If the Congress desired us to dispose of the ships, we will not in the future get the high prices we can get now."

He said it was the policy to sell only to American interests.

APPEAL ON INJUNCTION.

Assistant Attorney General Ames today announced at a conference with Justice Bailey of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, that the government will file an appeal from the injunction granted William Randolph Hearst to halt the sale of the ex-German passenger ships.

The appeal probably will be taken immediately so that a final decision on the case may be secured.

Counsel for the plaintiff participated in a conference with Justice Bailey and counsel for the government with regard to indemnification of the Shipping Board against loss involved in the delay caused by the sale of the ships.

The Shipping Board claims the cost of maintaining the vessels is from $13,000 to $16,000 a day, but it is believed the court will call for an itemized account of these charges before fixing bond to be offered by the plaintiff.

ASKS $5,000,000 BOND.

Assistant Attorney-General Ames asked that the plaintiff furnish approximately $5,000,000 bond. Counsel for the plaintiff objected vigorously to this on grounds that a nominal bond should be asked, as the action was brought by a citizen acting not only in the interests of the people, but of the government, and because all bids on the vessels have been rejected and Congress has questioned the right of the defendant to sell the ships.

Justice Bailey asked for detailed information to be submitted tomorrow as to the costs of advertising the bids for the sale of the ships.

Assistant Attorney-General Ames declared that the daily loss to the Shipping Board on fourteen of the ships was $9,140, and that on all of the ships the daily cost is approximately $20,000. Counsel for Mr. Hearst contended the indemnity bonds should be guaranteed by the government. It was contended that the Shipping Board was to sell the ships for $10,000,000 when their actual value according to the injunction was $100,000,000.

ARGUMENT BY FOLK.

"This action is to stop this loss to the government," said former Governor Folk, counsel for the plaintiff. "The fleet is the property right of the citizens of the United States and should not be sold for less than their value."

Government counsel contended that the injunction had halted the sale of the steamship Swanes, which was to have been sold today, $2,000,000 having been bid for it. It was admitted, however, that Chairman Payne had agreed to withhold actual sale of the ships until Congress had taken some definite action.

SAYS U. S. GOT ENGLISH COAL

Representative Towner Makes Charge Against the Shipping Board

By International News Service

Washington, Feb. 20.—Discrimination against the United States coaling station on the Virgin Island in favor of the English station at Barbadoes by the Shipping Board, was charged today by Representative Towner, Republican, of Iowa, at a hearing of the Virgin Island Commission.

Captain Paul Foley, representing the Shipping Board, was before the committee to explain the action of the board in not supplying coal to the St. Thomas coaling station.

"Has the board been discriminating against an American station, St. Thomas, in favor of an English station, Barbadoes, for the coaling of ships in the South American trade," Towner said.

Representative Towner brought out the fact that there are three or four coaling stations on the South American coast at which an yabortage in coal could be supplied if the St. Thomas coaling station could not supply the desired amount.

MAYOR APPLIES FOR U. S. BOAT

Fails to Understand John Barton Payne's Attitude on Request

Mayor Peters has added his name to those who do not understand the transactions of John Barton Payne, chairman of the United States Shipping Board. The Mayor's difference with Mr. Payne arose over negotiations for the purchase of a small vessel plying between the city and Long and Ridgefoot Islands, where several city institutions are located.

In a letter addressed to Rear Admiral William S. Benson, newly appointed head of the shipping Board, the Mayor today related that on December 30 he wrote to the Shipping Board chairman for information that the board would sell oceangoing tugs and small vessels to municipalities for the nominal sum of $1. Payne replied that the board had no such offer, the Mayor said.

Mayor Peters read of the sale to the New York police department by the Shipping Board of the steamship Penobscot for $1. The boat was built at the Norfolk Navy Yard at a cost of $400,000.

After reciting these facts to Admiral Benson, the Mayor renewed his request that Boston be allotted a vessel on terms similar to those given the New York police department. The George A. Hibbard, now in the service of Boston to the inland institutions, is badly in need of repairs, the Mayor said. The cost of putting it in condition is estimated at $30,000, and in view of the possibility of the institutions being discontinued in a few years, the Mayor declared such an expenditure would be unwise.

Maine Joins in Big Protest

Augusta, Me., Feb. 20.—With the same unanimity which impelled the Legislatures of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and Virginia to take action, a majority of the Maine Legislature has placed itself on record as against the sale of the former German ships.

Of the 182 members of the Legislature, ninety-six, or four more than a majority, polled by the Boston American, are opposed to the sale of the ships until after an investigation has decided their true value.

A majority of the legislators interviewed are opposed to the sale of the ships unless they are sold to Americans and sailed under the American flag.

The Maine legislators, like the legislators of the other States polled, base their opposition on patriotic grounds. Party affiliations are not allowed to warp their patriotic judgment. Of the Maine senate, consisting of thirty-one members, nineteen Republicans joined one Democrat in opposition to the sale.

Of the seventy-five representatives interviewed fifty-nine Republicans lined up with sixteen Democrats and one Independent in line with the drive of W. R. Hearst against the sale of the ships.

In addition to the interviews which have been printed in the American here are more showing the position of Maine legislators who oppose the sale of the ships:

HENRY C. STORR, Representative, Jemptland Plantation—I should consider the sale of German ships decidedly inadvisable at this time.

GEORGE V. HAMMOND, Representative, Van Buren—I believe in an investigation before the German ships are sold.

REMI A. DAIGLE, Representative, Madawaska—Let us go slow in the sale of the German ships.

HOW ADMIRAL PEARY NAILED STARS AND STRIPES TO NORTH POLE

DARING ACHIEVEMENT DUE TO AMAZING SACRIFICES

"The Stars and Stripes were nailed to the North Pole on April 6, 1909, at 10 o'clock in the morning."

This was the brief message from the coast of Labrador which on September 6, 1909, electrified the outside world and sent America wild with enthusiasm.

It was signed by Robert E. Peary, commander, U. S. N. Behind it lay an epic of sacrifice and struggle and devotion to an ideal rivalled only by the achievements of Columbus and the men who sailed with him.

It signified for the modest American navy man accomplishment of what the most daring spirits of four centuries had been seeking. It marked a material advance for science, and fresh glory for the United States of America.

It was weeks later that Peary and his little party returned to the United States and the world learned the details of that weary struggle northward, which reached its climax on the morning of April 6. Peary's return was that of a conquering hero. It is true that at first it was darkened by the controversy with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, his rival. But time was friendly to Peary, and his rival's claims were before long abandoned by everybody but himself.

Peary's victory, where countless other explorers had failed, was a triumphy of courage, determination, experience and natural leadership. His discovery of the Pole marked the end of the great adventure he began in 1886, when he made his first expedition into Greenland.

WHEN HE FOUND POLE.

Peary's sensations on the completion of his gigantic task were thus described by himself: "My most overpowering desire when I knew for a certainty that I had reached my goal was for a little rest. But after two or three hours of fatigue-compelled sleep, a state of mental exhilaration made further sleep impossible"

While Peary's first Arctic explorations were made in 1886, his first serious attempt to reach the Pole was made in 1891. That trip he discovered and named Melville Land and Hallprin Land, lying beyond Greenland, and determined the insularity of Greenland beyond all doubt.

The successful dash which culminated on April 6, 1909, was the eighth he had attempted. During that time he had spent twelve years of his life in the Arctic regions.

The eighth journey was begun in July, 1908, aboard the Roosevelt. The party proceeded northward to the Kane Basin, through Robeson Channel and on to a Winter base at Cape Sheridan. The party made camp there on September 8 and remained until February 5, 1909, leaving in five detachments.

Four of these detachments were sent back, one after the other, as the party progressed Northward. The last was commanded by Captain Bartlett and left the party near the 88th parallel.

From this point began what was literally "the dash for the pole," in which Peary was accompanied only by four Eskimos and one member of his crew.

130 MILES IN FIVE DAYS.

The dash of 130 miles was made in five days. Peary spent thirty hours at the Pole, where the explorer made observations, deposited records to establish his claim, and went out in various directions to establish other observation posts.

Peary discovered in 1894 the famous Iron Mountain, first heard of by Ross in 1818, which proved to be three meteorites, one of them weighing ninety tons, the largest known to exist.

Following this he made Summer voyages in 1896 and 1897, bringing the Cape York meteorites into the United States.

He then commanded the Arctic expedition under the auspices of the Peary Arctic Club of New York, lasting from 1898 to 1902.

ROUNDED GREENLAND.

He rounded the northern extremity of the Greenland Archepelago, the last of the great Arctic land groups, named the Northern Cape, the most northerly land in the world, at 83 degrees and 52 minutes north latitude, Cape Morris K. Jesup, and attained the highest north in the western hemisphere, the same being 84 degrees 17 minutes.

SAILS ON ROOSEVELT.

He sailed north again in July, 1905, in the S. S. Roosevelt, which was especially built for the expedition by the Peary Arctic Club. He returned from this expedition in 1906, having again reached the highest north, 87 degrees 6 minutes north latitude.

For his explorations he was awarded a special gold medal by the National Geographical Society of Washington; also a special gold medal by the Royal Geographical Society of London, and one from the Philadelphia Geographical Society, the Peary Arctic Club and Explorers' Club. He was also awarded the Hubbard gold medal of the National Geographic Society; the Culver gold medal of the Chicago Geographical Daly and Cullum gold medals of the Philadelphia Geographical Society; Daly and Cullum gold medals of the American Geographical Society; gold medals of Imperial German, Austrian and Hungarian Societies; Royal medals from the Royal Scottish, Italian and Belgian Societies; Swiss, Paris, Marseillaise, Normandy and City of Paris.

LEAD BIG SOCIETY.

He was president of the American Geographical Society in 1903; president of the Eighth International Geographical Congress at Washington in 1904, honorary vice-president of the Ninth International Geographical Congress at Geneva in 1908 and the Tenth at Rome in 1913. He was president of the Explorers' Club and Aero League of America, and United States delegate to the International Polar Commission at Rome in 1913; secretary of the International Polar Commission and chairman of the National Aerial Coast Patrol Commission. He was made Grand Officer D'Honneur of France in 1913.

Peary was a member of the following: The Philadelphia Geographical Society, the American Alpine Club, National Geographical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, New York Chamber of Commerce and all principal home and foreign geographical societies. Fraternally he was connected with the Phi Beta Kappa, the Delta Kappa Epsilon, and a fellow of the A. A. A. S. He was author of the following books:

"Northward Over the Great Ice," 1898; "Nearest the Pole," 1907; "The North Pole," 1910, and "The Secrets of Polar Travel," 1917. He was a contributor to geographical journals and popular magazines.

Robert Edwin Peary was born in Cresson, Pa., May 6, 1856, the son of Charles N. and Mary (Wiley) Peary. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1877, receiving a degree of C. E., and in 1884 received degrees of LL.D. from Edinburgh and Tufts.

Peary entered the United States navy as a civil engineer on October 26, 1881. He became assistant engineer of the Nicaragua Ship Canal under government orders from 1884 to 1885, and was engineer in charge of Nicaragua Canal surveys, 1887-1888, in which year he married Josephine Diebitsch. Peary was the inventor of rolling look gates for the Nicaragua Canal.

He made reconnaissance in 1886 of the Greenland inland ice cap, east of Disco Bay, 70 degrees north latitude. He was chief of the Arctic expedition of the Academy of National Sciences of Philadelphia, June, 1891, to September, 1892.

Admiral Peary was one of the most picturesque figures in American history. During recent years he has devoted much of his time to the development of aviation. He was one of the most enthusiastic workers for the commercial development of the aeroplane, and during the early days of the war he was behind a movement which gave much impetus to the creation of a large aviation force for the army and the navy.

RAILROAD MEN START BIG FUND

Money to Be Used In General Campaign for Betterment of Work Conditions

By International News Service

Washington, Feb. 20.—A great defense fund will be raised to support the program of the new railroad union alliance, which, as announced yesterday, will operate as one big union for offensive and defensive purposes.

The written agreement by which thirteen of the fifteen important railroad organizations have bound themselves to act as a unit in strikes and other movements provided a per capita assessment for each affiliated union to finance the alliance.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers may not join the alliance, as it is said to be against a strike policy.

WELLESLEY WELCOMES PRESIDENT PENDLETON

Miss Ellen F. Pendleton, president of Wellesley College, was given an ovation today in celebration of her return from a four months' tour of the Orient. The college whistle blowing at 7:30 a. m. was the signal for the students to form a double line between the president's house and the chapel. Miss Pendleton was escorted through the lines by students of classes and student societies to the chapel, where she gave a brief talk.

BOSTON HOTEL MAN IS DENIED DIVORCE

Saco, Me., Feb. 20.—Supreme Court Justice L. B. Deasy denied the petition of Ernest L. Gowan, manager of the Gladstone Hotel, Boston, in which the latter was seeking an absolute divorce from his wife, Georgia May Gowen of Sanford, Me., on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. In the petition Gowen claimed, among other things, that his wife became angry with him on his failure to comply with a request to exercise her dogs.

Plymouth, Feb. 20.—John Arenti was found guilty in the Superior Court here today by a jury of causing the death of Frank Gentili, a returned doughboy, at Brockton, July 13 last, in a shooting affray at a home-coming party given to Gentili. It was testified that a general quarrel followed drinking. Arsenti admitted having fired one shot. He was sentenced for life to Charlestown State Prison.

NEW CHARGE FOR WOMAN STABBED; BAUMGARTEN SEEK HUSBAND

Montreal Police Claim "Boston Millionaire" Was About to Launch Bogus Shoe Firm

Mrs. Anna Martino in Hospital After Quarrel—Husband Sought by Police

David L. Baumgarten, Jr., the "Boston millionaire," who with his pretty wife is under arrest in Montreal for alleged theft, was about to launch a bogus Boston shoe company upon a Canadian company when caught, according to the Montreal police.

Literature promoting the shoe company will be part of the evidence introduced when the Baumgarten case is resumed next Wednesday at Montreal.

Beautiful photographs of a construction plant located on Long Point were on the point of being distributed as pictures of the new shoe factory, it is claimed.

Dispatches from Montreal today indicated that the police regarded the Baumgartens as "confidence people" of the highest order, wanted in many cities, both Canadian and American.

They were originally arrested for the theft of an automobile in Montreal.

Mrs. Anna Martino, thirty-five, of No. 95 Shirley street, Roxbury, is on the danger list at the City Hospital suffering from two knife wounds, one in the back and the other on the neck, inflicted by her husband, John, with a pen knife after the couple had quarreled at their home.

The police of the Dudley Street Station are searching the city for Martino who fled from his home, leaving his wife in an unconscious condition from the loss of blood.

Neighbors who heard the woman screaming notified the police.

According to the police the missing man was recently haled into court and charged with assault and battery on his wife.

HOOVER GETS $5,200 PER MINUTE FOR SPEECH

New York, Feb. 20.—Herbert Hoover got $5,200 a minute for a speech he delivered here. It took him ten minutes to deliver it and the total proceeds of $52,000 will be devoted to the relief of the starving children of Hungary. Mr. Hoover's address was delivered before 400 members of the New York Fur Auction Corporation in the Masonic Temple. He preceded his appeal for subscriptions by a graphic description of the pitiful conditions of the children throughout the starving nation.

NEW ENGLAND ARMY RECRUITS TOTAL 7,035

At a conference at the army recruiting station, No. 2 Tremont Row, it was emphasized that the War Department thinks some of the best men of the country come from this section. New England, since last March, has supplied 7,035 recruits. Boston leads with 2,578 and other quotas are: Springfield, 2,268; Providence, 1,647, and Portland, 1,012. Colonel Charles D. Palmer of the General Staff at Washington made a special trip to attend the conference and suggested means to put the new drive across.

Woodman, manufacturer of badges, buttons and railroad punches, at No. 82 Sudbury street, and arrested Woodman on a charge of having liquor in his possession unlawfully. He was held under $500 for the grand jury by United States Commissioner Hayes. His home is in Medford.

IS ULSTER UNITED AGAINST THE SINN FEIN MOVEMENT?

This is the influence the public got from statements made by the Ulster Delegation from Ireland during their tour of the United States. The other side of the question is taken by Edward F. McSweeney, in a series of articles entitled "The Answer to Ulster," starting next Tuesday in the Boston American. There is much of interest to Friends of Irish Freedom and, in fact, to anyone who cares for a fair review of any subject.

SHOE WORKERS IN HAVERHILL STRIKE

"THE ANSWER TO ULSTER"

Edward F. McSweeney, a prominent member of the Friends of Irish Freedom, has thrown down the gauntlet to the Ulster Delegation from Ireland concerning Ireland's part in the World War, America's present relation to Ireland and her independence, as well as various industrial, political and religious questions. This brilliant reply appears in the form of five articles starting in the Boston American next Tuesday, February 24.

BOSTON AMERICAN LIMERICK CONTEST $250 EVERY DAY For the Best Last Lines

James Cavan

13 Sanborn Avenue, Somerville, Mass.

will be paid $150 for the "best last line" of

LIMERICK No. 13

The completed Limerick reads as follows:

A scholar once said to his son,
"Six can never be equal to One."
"That can't be the truth,"
Responded the youth,
"See what the Big Four has done."

James Cavan is a plasterer by occupation and lives at No. 13 Sanborn avenue, Somerville. He has lived in that city nine years. Mr. Cavan said that he has tried the Limericks each night since they appeared in the Boston American. "I have been a constant reader of the American, and I would feel lost without the paper in my home. I have traveled many times on a stormy night to get it, when the places near here were all sold out.

"I like the editorials because I like to see the truth. Mr. Hearst is the best American that I know of, because his editorials are fearless and devoted to truth."

4 next "best last lines" of No. 13 Limerick were written by

J. P. SALISBURY, 15 Plenty St., Providence, R. I.
DOROTHY TWOMBLY, McKinley, Me.
MISS SUSIE E. MASON, 431 Weir St., Taunton, Mass.
MISS EUGENIE M. OEHME, 22 Milton St., Worcester, Mass.

Each of whom will be paid $25.00 by the Boston American.

RULES:

1. Friday, January 30th, the Boston American commenced publication of a daily incompleted Limerick, and $100 will be paid for the "best last line" sent in by its readers completing Limericks Nos. 1 and 2. Beginning with Limerick No. 3, a total award of $350 will be given; first award, $150, and for the next four "best last lines" $25.00 each will be given. In the event of more than one person sending in the same "best last line," similar awards will be made.

2. No one is barred from participating unless employes of the Boston American and their families, who are absolutely barred. No one may send in more than one "best last line" to each Limerick.

3. The blank printed herewith is for the convenience of the readers and the Editors, but you do not have to use this particular blank.

4. Each Limerick appearing in the Boston American will have a number, and the "best last line" must be sent in a sealed envelope, by mail, addressed to "Boston American Limerick Department," P. O. Box 258, Boston 4, Mass. On the outside of each envelope containing the "best last line" must be written or printed "Limerick No. ——." This is most important.

5. All "best last lines" must be received by the Limerick Department by 12 o'clock noon, four days after publication. Announcement of each award will be made in the Boston American one week after publication of each Limerick.

6. The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these rules that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the proposition, and the decision of the Boston American Limerick Editor on any question which may arise shall be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

BOSTON LAWYER SOUGHT AS THIEF

Joseph F. Warren, Charged With Forgery, Missing; Many Alleged Victims

Waite, Flinn and Flaherty have secured two warrants against him.

One complainant is Captain James E. Gerrish, former master of the House of Correction at Deer Island.

Captain Gerrish charges that Warren secured from him $2,600 through the sale of a mortgage which he claimed was properly executed and which covered a piece of realty mortgaged to Mrs. Ethel W. Ehrman, of Abbot street, Wellesley.

CALLS SIGNATURE FORGERY.

Mrs. Ehrman has proven conclusively that the signature on the paper by which she was alleged to have assigned the instrument to Warren, is a rank forgery. Another complainant against Warren is Mrs. Alice Swallow, also of Abbott street, Wellesley.

According to George Stanley Harvey, assistant district attorney of Middlesex County and attorney for Captain Gerrish, Warren has admitted his wrongdoing in this one specific instance. And, on his plea to make restitution prosecution was withheld for a considerable period.

Warren, in pleading extenuation for his crime, claimed that he was the victim of a vicious blackmailing scheme. He claimed that it was in order to satisfy the claims of this blackmailer he entered into the transaction in which Captain Gerrish and Mrs. Ehrman were unfortunately involved.

According to the story he told Assistant District Harvey, he had once before put through just such a scheme as that attempted on Captain Gerrish.

In that instance the fraud was discovered by the intended victim. He at once confronted Warren and secured from him a payment of the amount of money involved.

MADE DEMANDS FOR CASH.

But, according to Warren, the man did not return the mortgage nor the note. On the contrary, he held them, and from time to time was wont to make demands for money. It was in satisfying these demands that Warren became involved at present, it is said.

"Give me time," Harvey quotes Warren as saying, "and I will make good these claims. They are all I owe and I promise to make full and complete restitution. If I am permitted to do so I will make a payment of $1,000 this week and another $1,000 next week and so on until I am satisfied Captain Gerrish.

"To secure a warrant for me would result in my disgrace and disbarment. I merely entered into this to satisfy the demands of the blackmailer and I ask you as a man and an attorney to give me a chance. Please hold Gerrish off and do not permit him to prosecute me. Give me a chance and I will satisfy you."

Accordingly Assistant District Attorney Harvey did not hurry with the work of prosecuting. He went to New Hampshire on a vacation, but did not enter into an agreement with Warren or his attorney. He returned from New Hampshire to find that Warren was gone, that nothing had been done with relation to satisfying Captain Gerrish's claim.

Mr. Harvey at once entered into an investigation of Warren's activities. He found that, instead of owing only the money to Captain Gerrish, he was probably involved to the extent of between $200,000 and $300,000. Just how much of the money owed was secured in the same manner as that from Captain Gerrish is not at present known.

"When Warren put his payment proposition to me," said Harvey, "I refused to acquiesce in it. And I told him that I would not countenance his entering into any more such schemes for raising money for the purpose of satisfying my claim. I would, in other words, not permit him to rob Peter to pay Paul.

WAS TRUSTEE OF ESTATES.

According to the investigators the scheme worked was to secure a mortgage on a piece of property of which Warren was a trustee. It is stated that in his office there were a number of estates in trust, and he acted as trustee of them.

The loan was made on a mortgage apparently properly executed. Then it is charged the mortgage was taken and a forged assignment of it given by the attorney. With this forged assignment he went to persons having money to loan on mortgages and secured a loan, offering the mortgage as collateral security for the note.

In the case involved he mortgaged the house for $4,000, then forged the signature on the assignment and borrowed $6,400 from Captain Gerrish. This plan, according to the executors, had been worked successfully in a number of instances.

RUSH SHIPS FOR BOSTON COAL

Daniels Announces That Carriers of 107,000 Tons Capacity Have Been Allotted

One hundred and seven thousand tons of shipping to load coal for New England have been allotted by the Shipping Board, according to a telegram received today by Governor Coolidge from Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

The telegram was in reply to a request from the conference of New England Governors, asking that naval colliers be assigned to coal-carrying for this section. It says:

"Replying telegram from New England Governors concerning coal shortage, find Shipping Board yesterday named 107,000 tons shipping for prompt loading for Boston on request of central coaling committee. One additional ship named today. If central coaling committee is kept informed of your needs Shipping Board reports they can and will gladly look out for them."

Continuation of the license system for the export of bituminous coal was urged today by Edmund K. Billings, collector of the port, who went to Washington to confer with Secretary Tumulty.

Billings, who said he represented the Governors of the six New England States, declared that when the Railroad Administration goes out of existence that the license system of coal exports will be abandoned.

He declared that there were large numbers of foreign ships now in port waiting to take on cargoes of coal, and if the export restrictions are lifted New England will suffer from a coal shortage. He urged that the President use the Lever act to restrict the exportation of coal.

New England is now getting but one-third of her normal supply of coal, Billings said.

Welcome Kaiser as Tourist Magnet

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 20.—Many residents of the Dutch island of Curacao welcome the idea of the ex-Kaiser being exiled there, according to William Townsend, a merchant who arrived from Willemstadt today.

Those who favor the coming of the ex-Kaiser say his presence will make the island more prosperous through the increase in tourists and curiosity seekers.

Mr. Townsend said that two mysterious strangers recently visited the island and inspected building sites, and it was reported they were seeking a residence for the one-time war lord.

SUGAR SHIP HARD HIT BY STORM

Steamship Lake Como Nearly Swamped in Long Battle Through High Seas

With several of her ventilators and deck fittings swept away and water penetrating her cargo of Cuban raw sugar, the Shipping Board steamship Lake Como arrived in port today with her officers and crew exhausted from a long battle with gales and heavy seas.

For several days the vessel fought her way north in the teeth of northerly winds and blizzards. Captain Prewergy was almost continuously on duty for several days, nursing his ship through the smother, but her 3,090 tons of sugar set her so low that the seas continuously broke over the sides.

Other ships arriving today also encountered heavy weather. The British steamship Clan McQuarrie from Buenos Ayres came over the same course as the Lake Como, but being a larger vessel with a lighter cargo, did not suffer damage. Captain Oliver found more than 100 steamers tied up at Havana by the dock strike.

The British freighter Haleria arrived from Calcutta after a remarkably fast passage of only forty-five days.

The "Get Ready" Days Are Here. Our
Misses' Spring Suits
Of Tricotine, Serge and Poiret
at $45.00 to $95.00
will help you get ready for the blithe days when gardens come to life and the streets of the city are sunny and gay.
These suits have the impressive quality; they delight the eye instantly with their refinement and finish.
THEIR STYLE IS HALF THE STORY AND THEIR TAILORING COMPLETES IT.
Their grace is not short-lived nor fugitive; their fashion points will prevail throughout the season.
Many models are strictly tailored—a term synonymous with style. The semi-tailored, belted and flared coats have new and accented devices—the essence of fashion.
The Eton and pony coats, embroidery and silk braiding make these suits as different as they are desirable.
In suits such as these, the well dressed Miss who "goes about," the college girl and the girl of business will greet the coming season.
This assemblage of styles is indicative only of our extensive stock shown in the Misses' Gray Shop—second floor.

NGLAND FACES BIRTH STRIKE

N. P., Father of Seventeen Children, Declares Mothers Object to Bigger Families

ndon, Feb. 20.—A. Hayday, Labor mber of Parliament, who is the ther of seventeen children and has ncome of $70 weekly, declares the is a growing movement in Gat Britain "which may be termed a 'others' strike.'" due to the hard ro the lower and middle classes hin in maintaining a home. He re- ome suggestions those classes ould strive to make up the war- wtages in man power.

These people definitely preach we must have increases in our popula- tio," said Hayday. "If these people ere to go around holding public eetings advocating their views be- fo the mothers of the country they ould be mobbed.

Many of these mothers and fathers have to sacrifice their own meals to provide food for their children.

"There is growing over the coun- try today a woman's movement which may be called a 'mothers' strike.' And who can blame these women? It is really a condition of things more serious than any epi- demic ever could be.

"The 'mothers strike' will continue until mothers are afforded more pro- tection than they now receive from those in authority and in a position to provide such protection.

Every one of them is fresh and new. They have bright em- blems, colored collars, and all the things that girls like in mid- dy blouses. Mid- dies will soon take the place of woolen dresses for school, and now is an excel- lent time to buy them, while the choice is com- plete and they are fresh and new.

There are four styles—all of fine sturdy white jean.

1. One has navy blue serge collar and cuffs trimmed with white braid and stars.
2. Another has a collar of blue kindergarten cloth and an emblem on the sleeve.
3. An all white co-ed middy with braid on the collar and an emblem on the arm.
4. Another all white middy laces up the front, and has a shaped hem at the bottom that laces up the sides.

Sizes 6 to 16.

Commons in Uproar as Nationalist Denounces Cruelty to Sinn Feiners

London, Feb. 20.—An uproar was caused in the House of Commons when Joseph Devlin, Nationalist member from West Belfast, denounced the policy of the British government in maintaining in prison four Sinn Fein members of Parliament, one alderman and eleven councilors.

Ian MacPherson, chief secretary for Ireland, replying to Devlin's attack, disclaimed knowledge that Lord Mayor Kelly of Dublin was confined in a mental hospital as a result of his treatment in Wormwood Scrubbs prison. He added that Kelly was still under a deportation order. Devlin's protests were shouted down by the anti-Irish members.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and cleaning the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 10c and 25c.

PALMER AFTER FOOD HOARDERS

Drop in Prices Predicted by Throwing Huge Supplies on Market

By Universal Service.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—The immediate throwing on the market of enormous quantities of foodstuffs, and a consequent material reduction in the cost of living, is expected to result from an order for wholesale prosecution of food hoarders in all large cities, received here by Federal officials from Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer.

The order was issued as a means of forcing profiteers to unload their stored food supplies. It was declared. Two years' imprisonment is the penalty under the Lever act for conviction of hoarding.

LAWRENCE SISTERS OVERCOME BY GAS

Lawrence, Feb. 20.—Misses Mary and Catherine Brogan of No. 92 Tremont street, sister of Sealer of Weights J. V. Brogan, were overcome by gas in the kitchen of their home. Mrs. Annie Murphy, whose father was being buried, had come to call the two women for the funeral. She found them in an unconscious condition from the fumes from gas plate. A pulmotor rushed from the police station revived the women.

SMOOT WOULD RUIN REWARDS STRUCTURE

This is the eighth and last of a series of articles of unusual appeal to every ex-service man and woman and of great importance to every legion post. They should interest the beneficiaries, dependents, relatives and friends of soldiers, sailors and marines.

By CHARLES O. POWER

The legislative committee of the American Legion at Washington insists that the bill proposed by Senator Smoot to abolish the Bureau of War Risk Insurance and apportion its functions among the Postoffice Department, the War and Navy Departments, the Pension Bureau and the Coast Guard, would be destructive of all the good accomplished by the insurance and compensation legislation passed by Congress and of all the work done by the bureau.

Important objections to the scheme which are in the minds of the legislative watchdogs of the Legion and the officials of the bureau were explained in the preceding article. The same objections, it may truthfully be said, are in the minds of thousands of disabled men and their dependents who are praying that Congress will give its approval only to constructive and generous measures affecting their interests.

Let us consider now the transferring of the compensation feature of the war risk act to the pension bureau, as has been suggested by Senator Smoot. It has been said that this work could be accomplished with sixteen hundred employes. Again, the wrong impression has been assumed—that is, confusing an operating force with a building force.

PENSION BUREAU DIFFERENT.

It is figured by the head of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance that it will not take anything like 1,600 people to carry on the work of the compensation division after the claims had been investigated and awarded or disallowed.

It has been said that the Pension Bureau is making payments on six hundred thousand cases. The records of these cases have been compiled for a number of years, whereas the Bureau of War Risk Insurance has been confronted with the building up in less than a year of over 350,000 cases. The Pension Bureau has only been concerned in the last fiscal year with the payments on cases, the majority of which were approved many years ago. To issue the checks every three months, as is done by the Pension Bureau on approved cases, is not a great task.

The Sweet bill, which provided additional compensation to disabled soldiers, passed Congress in the latter days of December. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance had been able to revise all its awards to disabled soldiers, about 180,000, by the 10th of January and had put in the mail all the adjustment checks, so that, we see, the operation of the physical issuance of checks cannot be compared with the operation of making an original award and subsequent awards on disabled soldiers whose condition is constantly changing.

The commissioner of pensions in his annual report says: "Many people who are not posted have an erroneous impression of the workings of the Pension Bureau. They regard it as a simple thing to take up a pension claim and immediately dispose of it."

MIGHT BREAK FAITH.

The same thing may be said of the workings of the compensation division of the War Risk Bureau. The operations of the compensation division are closely allied with the medical treatment and hospitalization of the soldiers, and to attempt to change horses in mid-stream would be a tragedy to the men who have been disabled in the services of their country. To break the coordination between the public health service and the bureau in order that the Bureau of Pensions may have jurisdiction over the compensation claims would be jeopardizing the government's promise to the soldiers of this war.

The Pension Bureau in its report states that it has 1,466 physicians and 500 specialists throughout the States who assisted its medical division in the personal examination of invalid soldiers.

Exhibit 27 of this report shows 1,224 examining surgeons, who made only 1,389 examinations in the year. It has 154 "single" surgeons, and these experts made only 249 examinations in the year. In other words, each examining member, surgeon, or special expert surgeon, did not do more than make one examination a year, while the Bureau of War Risk Insurance made almost as many examinations in one day as they all made in one year.

Where the government is paying compensation, it is, in most cases, also paying insurance. The compensation division has had jurisdiction over the payment of all these claims, and the papers are filed in the same jacket, so only one set of proofs of death has been necessary. If it is the intention to transfer the compensation and claims to the Pension Bureau, and insurance claims to the post office, another set of files would have to be made.

COMPLICATES PAYMENTS.

This would compel a beneficiary, in making a compensation or insurance claim, to submit one set of proofs to the Pension bureau and another set to the postoffice and, a soldier who is totally and permanently disabled and, therefore, entitled to compensation and insurance would have to depend on two government agencies for his monthly check and, in case of correspondence, instead of one letter to one division, he would have to write two separate letters to two separate bureaus. Former service men should know that it is because of these complications the American Legion opposed the Smoot bill.

Now let's hear from Director Jones of the war risk bureau in opposition: "It appears that one thought in this idea of dividing the functions of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is based solely on the collection of premiums. The matter of claims is entirely forgotten. Also, that, under the new form of converted insurance, there are loans and cash surrender values, paid-up insurance, disability benefits, changes of beneficiaries, and other changes from one plan to another which require medical examinations and call for the investment of funds at a proper rate of interest, so that there will be no drain upon the treasury department.

"The new form provides for the payment of dividends as earned, so that some one with proper knowledge of life insurance finance must calculate these dividends, must calculate the government's liabilities, must calculate the proper reserve funds to be set aside, and must do everything that an ordinary life insurance company does in order to keep the insurance on a safe, solvent and conservative basis. The premium collecting division of the life insurance company constitutes but a very small portion of the administrative forces.

CONGRESS REFUSES TO ACT.

"The bureau has been agitating for almost a year to allow the men to have the essential privilege of paying their premiums to any postmaster or rural carrier, without any cost to them. Not long ago postoffice officials and the bureau officials appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee, and the Postoffice Department opposed the bureau's idea of having the premiums paid through their department by a simple accounting method. So that this idea of collecting premiums through the Postoffice Department would not be opposed by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. On the contrary, it is one which the bureau has tried to get Congress to act on for over a year, but Congress has seen fit to take no action."

If Congress should legislate so that premiums may be paid through the Postoffice Department, the War Risk Bureau would not require so many employes for the handling of the separate remittances now being forwarded to Washington. So much of Senator Smoot's bill as provides for that is good.

What about cases like these under the Smoot bill: If a man takes out government life insurance and some years hence lapses his policy, and then wishes to reinstate it, would the Postoffice Department call upon the Pension Bureau to have one of its medical examiners examine the man, or would the department have its own trained medical personnel?

Instead of such legislation, give us the Wason bill, says the legion, which provides for regional offices of the war risk bureau; for thorough publicity to acquaint all with their rights under the law; for the payments of insurance premiums through postoffices without cost; for more generous compensation payments to the disabled and their dependents; for the removal of all restrictions as to beneficiaries; for the same rights under term as under the converted forms of insurance; which relieves the sick and disabled from the payments of premiums and which provides more and better care for all honorably discharged service men after discharge.

Do not scatter the functioning processes which handle former service men and women, but try to bring them into closer union, is the legion's advice and appeal to Congress, urging specifically that it might be worth while from the standpoints of service, efficiency and economy, to begin by legislating the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Federal Board for Vocational Education and the Public Health Service into component parts of one integral organization.

In conclusion, a few words about the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Its work in the last few months under the direction of the new chief, Mr. Lamkin, has shown great improvement. But the promises that were made to the wounded up to last June should be carried out in the spirit in which they were made.

The board should make good the offers which were enticingly set forth in the millions of Opportunity Monographs, the official publication of the board, which were in the nature of implied contracts.

Until this has been done thousands of boys will feel they have been cheated by the government, were victims of false pretenses. And there is no doubt that Chief Lamkin would be delighted to develop his field under a liberalized law that would permit him to do this.

MONEY IS ONLY A BY-PRODUCT

Did you ever stop to think that Money is only a by-product? The real products are the efforts, the enthusiasm, the satisfaction of "playing the game" and feeling that there's "no fun like work." A real live feller will play a game of golf or bridge with just as much interest when there's no money at stake as when there is. The thing is, to "play the game." Just the same with the Democratic store, treat the people a little better than they are treated elsewhere, giveem a little more for their money than others do, then if the feller running the business has a little commonsense and plenty of succotash, you can't STOPEM and the money comes anyway.

"Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets"

E. W. Grove

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

"BEST EVER" BALMWORT KIDNEY TABLETS

Mr. Chas. Atwell, 288 N. Champion Ave., Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I find that Balmwort Kidney Tablets are the best that I have ever used for Kidney and Bladder trouble. I am sure that they will relieve me," etc. Mrs. M. M. Madder, 709 W. Abriendo St., Pueblo, Colo., writes: "I have used Balmwort Kidney Tablets and find them highly satisfactory." If you have backache, rheumatic pains, "blues," etc., affect you, try the immediate benefits of taking Balmwort Tablets. All druggists sell them.

Real Wonder-Worker For Wrinkled Faces

Those who have tried all sorts of so-called "wrinkle removers" in a vain effort to lose those unwelcome traces of age, illness or worry, can scarcely find words to express their delight with the wonderful saxolite formula, once they have given it a trial. The success of this method is due not alone to its marvelous effectiveness—upon the deepest lines and crowsfeet, as well as upon the very fine ones—but also to its surprisingly quick action and its entire harmlessness. Its simplicity is another commendable feature, for one need only dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and bathe the face in the solution. The remarkable transformation is beheld:

It is not only the effect on wrinkles and creases that is so noticeable, but facial contour is remarkably improved and the face looks much younger. One should be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite. The lotion, being so refreshing, is particularly grateful to tired faces.—Advertisement.

IRISH DRIVE IS ON TOMORROW

De Valera Sends Stirring Appeal; Bond Sale to Begin Here

Forty-three thousand British soldiers, the maintenance of whom cost approximately $4,300,000 a month, are quartered in Ireland today, according to a report issued by Winston Churchill.

The object of these soldiers being in Ireland is only the Irish people in subjection, harass Sinn Feiners, and forbid free speech and public assembly, say prominent leaders of the Irish bond certificate drive, which opens in Boston and Massachusetts tomorrow.

"England still unloads her financial burdens on Ireland," says President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Republic, in a communication to Irish societies indorsing the loan drive. "The tribute exacted by the foreigner prevents us from raising at the moment an adequate tax of our own. An advance loan from countries more happily placed is necessary, and has been sanctioned by the people's parliament—determined that the republic will live and the debt be paid.

"Americans can help in the projected work of restoration and reconstruction by subscribing.

VISUALIZES CALL OF BLOOD.

"Americans of Irish blood, you will not refuse to renew your filial ties, and take a further share in the preservation of the race and of the land from which you sprung. She is your motherland as well as ours. Do you not wish her to take her rightful place among the nations? Can you withhold your assistance when it is powerful enough to place her there?

"Think of your fathers and your mothers—the men and women, boys and girls, that in unending stream through Castle Garden made their wistful way here to win life and honor in this great land of liberty and opportunity.

"Boys and girls, such as they were, strong and noble and bright, gentle and pure, are still in Ireland today. The same causes are about to drive them forth. Will you not help to keep them in their own land?

"They love Ireland as your fathers and mothers love Ireland. It breaks their hearts to leave that land as it broke the hearts of those boys and girls—your parents. The tears of the mothers and fathers to be left behind in many a lonely cottage are full as bitter today, their grief as wild, as the tears and the grief of your parents left behind never to see again.

"You cannot refuse your aid to end so much sorrow, to preserve these boys and girls for the land which needs them, and for the people they love."

WARD CHAIRMEN MEET.

To still further the Irish bond certificate drive, a meeting of the twenty-six ward chairmen will be held this evening in room No. 23, American House, Hanover street, at which Hon. L. Edda will preside. Major Thomas L. Walsh, who has been chosen chairman of the Boston city committee in charge of the drive, is expected to address the meeting.

Joseph H. O'Neil of the Federal Trust Company is treasurer for the Boston campaign.

Joseph Leonard R. Dowd of the Boston Municipal Court will be the orator at the St. Patrick's Day exercises to be held in Mechanics Hall, Worcester, under the auspices of the united divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in that city.

Edward R. McSweeney has been secured by the John Boyle O'Reilly Reading Circle to supervise the course of lectures to be conducted by that organization during the Lenten season at the quarters in the Pierce Building, Copley Square.

Judge Joseph A. Sheehan of the Boston Municipal Court, counsel for the Massachusetts Catholic Order Foresters, will be the orator Sunday afternoon at the memorial services to be held in St. Rose's Hall, No. 17 Worcester street, South End, for the late Past High Chief Ranger Daniel A. Cronin by the Knights and Ladies of St. Rose, third degree branch of the order.

CURLEY ADDRESSES K. OF C.

"America's Debt to Ireland" will be the theme of former Mayor James M. Curley of Shawmut Council at the monthly meeting of Boston Chapter, Knights of Columbus, in St. Rose Hall, No. 17 Worcester street, South End, Sunday afternoon, March 14. Worthy Inquisitor Francis A. McLaughlin will preside.

Father McGoldrick Court, No. 284, Massachusetts Catholic Order Foresters, of Dorchester, will hold an "Irish Night" Wednesday evening, March 17. Past Chief Ranger Bernard Heaney heads the committee of arrangements.

TRUCK DRIVER FINED FOR BLOCKING TRAFFIC

Norman Landers, a motor truck driver, was fined $15 in the Woburn court today for obstructing street car traffic. He left the truck in front of a store on Main street, Winchester, last Saturday, and when a motorman asked him to move it, Landers refused. A policeman in civilian clothes also asked the driver to move the truck.

AROOSTOOK COUNTY BURIED BY BLIZZARD

Houlton, Me., Feb. 20.—Aroostook County was today buried under a foot and a half of snow, following the worst blizzard for many years. Seventeen children being carried to their homes by a school team became stalled outside the town and had to be taken to a nearby house for the night. George Carpenter, a farmer living seven miles from Houlton, was found in an exhausted condition.

SOCIETY CROOK PLANS TO WED

"Capt." Gordon, Who Swindled Jeweler Here, Gets Permit to Marry Actress

"Captain" Frederick Vincent Gordon, notorious as an international swindler and society crook, who, during a brief visit to this city prior to his arrest about a week ago, swindled a Boston jeweler of $680 worth of diamonds and passed bad checks at a number of hotels, has secured a license to marry Miss Ines Tracey, a New York actress. Gordon is a prisoner at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The marriage license was issued last Monday and stated that the ceremony would be performed by the Rev. John J. Brady, chaplain of the yard. Miss Tracey, when shown the license bearing her name, said:

"Oh, that is strange. Still I cannot tell you anything about it, for I don't know anything."

Gordon is accredited with a sensational past, having played his game on both American and European continents. For some months prior to his arrest he matched wits with the ablest and cleverest criminal hunters of Scotland Yard, the Paris Detective Bureau, the United States Secret Service, and the police of at least a score of American cities. He claims to be an electrical engineer coming from Dayton, O.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

PREVENT INFLUENZA

When symptoms appear (sneezing and coughing) inhale Minard's (there is camphor in it) and apply externally. Inhaling clears the bronchial tubes, external application will positively relieve aching glands and relieves back and leg pains.

In most cases of grippe and influenza, beside external application, Minard's Liniment may be used on the tongue, in equal portions, and taken in teaspoonful doses every three or four hours will positively clear the bronchial tubes.

Ward off influenza and pneumonia. Get it today. All druggists.

'LAZY BACK,' SAYS JUDGE, ASSESSING FINE OF $15

Judge Sullivan in the Charlestown Court today rebuked Julius Yenosky of Cutter street, Somerville, for not cleaning the ice and snow from the sidewalk in front of No. 7 Austin street, Charlestown, and imposed a fine of $15, which was suspended for a year.

"What was the reason you didn't clean the sidewalk?" asked the Court.

"Because I've got a sore back," replied Yenosky.

"You've got a lazy back instead of a sore back," added the Court. "Don't let it happen again."

MEMORIALS FOR WAR VICTIMS

French Government to Show Its Gratitude Toward Charlestown Men

Relatives of Charlestown service men killed in the war will receive the French government memorials at exercises in the Charlestown High School auditorium next Monday night.

The memorials are in the form of certificates, engraved with expression of the gratitude of France, which bear the signature of the republic and a symbolical group depicting the American forces helping France to maintain the torch of liberty and justice.

The program at the Charlestown exercises includes an address by Dr. James Gallagher of Charlestown, Americanization movies with a lecture by Principal William O'Hare, and music by St. Mary's Young Ladies' Orchestra which the Rev. James A. Donnellie organized. Maurice J. Power is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

PRAISES KINDNESS OF GERMANS TO SOLDIERS

Army Field Clerk B. C. Clerk of Pittsburg, on leave of absence from Coblenz, where he is stationed with the army of occupation, called at army headquarters today. "Take it from me, you can pitch into the Germans all you please, but they treated the American boys fine in Germany," he said.

"They gave us boys more real kindness than we got in France and Belgium, and that's going some."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. EDWARD G. MORRIS

The church was filled. Besides her husband, Mrs. Morris is survived by eight children. The family home is at No. 33 Mercer street, South Boston. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

SCIENCE CHURCH CASE REVIVED

Bates Moves for Reopening of Hearing Before Judge Frederic Dodge

John L. Bates, counsel for the Christian Science Church directors before Judge Crosby of the supreme Court today, asked that a motion filed last Saturday directing Judge Frederic Dodge to hear evidence to be offered by the directors in result of John V. Dittemore against them before filing his final report in the suit of the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society against the directors, be assigned for hearing next week.

Mr. Bates said that the master had not complied with the rule which required him to hear all the evidence in both cases.

Sherman L. Whipple for the trustees called the motion unprecedented and an attempt to have a report recommitted before it had been made.

William G. Thompson, counsel for Dittemore, said the motion was an attempt by the directors to have Judge Dodge change a bad report against them into a good one for them. Mr. Bates denied both assertions.

Judge Crosby will hear further arguments on Friday next.

A VOICE FROM BEYOND THE GRAVE

Whether the average reader believes in communication of Spirit Messages, or not, the fact remains that many persons of highest reputation hold that belief and stake their reputations on the proofs that they are willing to furnish. In a remarkable series of letters written by the late Ella Wheeler Wilcox, America's greatest poetess, describes the messages which she received from her dead husband Robert M. Wilcox; which messages had a most pronounced influence upon her every-day life. The series starts exclusively in tomorrow's Boston American.

ASKS CO-OPERATION IN TAKING OF FARM CENSUS

Washington, Feb. 20.—American farmers today were asked by Secretary of Agriculture Meredith to give their hearty co-operation in securing a full and accurate census of the farms. He reminded the farmers that, according to law, information they furnish the census enumerators is absolutely confidential and cannot be used to increase tax collectors or tax assessors.

BAR PUBLIC IN CAILLAUX CASE

Long Secret Session Marks Resumption of Trial of Former Premier

Paris, Feb. 20.—A two-hour secret session marked the resumption of the treason trial of former Premier Joseph Caillaux before the Senate sitting as a high court of justice in Luxembourg Palace today.

Public interest was even higher than it had been at the opening session on Tuesday and large crowds sought admittance to the "standing gallery" which was opened to the public at the end of the secret session.

M. Caillaux was fashionably dressed and smiled gayly when he was brought to court from prison. He was calm and smiled to acquaintances. The court convened at 1 o'clock, but it was not until 3 that the public was admitted.

The ex-premier's face was pallid, evidently from his long confinement in prison. He carried a mass of documents under his arm. When he replied to questions by the court his tone was firm and clear.

Plenty of Staple Styles included in this

Mark-Down Sale of all winter Overcoats

By "staple styles" we mean those conservative models—especially that commonly known as the Chesterfield—that are always in favor, year in and year out, and for that reason are seldom offered at reduced prices by ordinary stores. But we make no distinction. Every winter overcoat in the store—staple or fancy—is included at these price reductions.

Fashion advantages of a specialty shop —price advantages of a big store

Way back in our school-days—

WE REMEMBER one day it was raining cats and dogs, and we were feeling blue—and then the teacher told us when it was rainy outside we must make our own sunshine.

And we don't know why, but it stuck in our memory.

And today we got to thinking of how it's been blizzing outside, and then slushing and then icing, and that if we can't have spring outside perhaps we can make our own SPRING by wearing new, smiling clothes.

And just about that time one of our section chiefs came up and said he wanted us to tell the public about some $65 spring suits for women.

"But," he added, "when I went to look for them to show you I couldn't find them. They're all gone!"

So apparently a great many women had tried this kink before we thought of it.

And we are willing to wager that the women who have those spring-like suits (and others have come in take their place) are almost totally oblivious to the elements that have been so unkind to us lately, but which are about to relent, we feel certain!

PLENTY of women's all wool

PLAID SKIRTS

—accordion plaited, box plaited, side plaited and plain

$18.50 to $39.50

They will keep company with plain waists or doublets, with sweaters, short or long coats. Two widely different types sketched.

$18.75 The accordion-plaited skirt, on the right, is a diamond pattern plaid, in light and dark color combinations; the belt fastens with a huge button over each hip. $18.75.

$18.50 The other sketch shows broad, box-plaited skirts in brown and blue plaids; two pockets are cleverly hidden beneath the plaits, and secured with silk arrowheads. The oddly shaped belt almost forms a waistcoat. $18.50.

"Disappearing" stripe skirts, side plaited, $25 to $39.50

Plain skirts in plaids and checks, $15 to $22.50

Black-white plaid skirts, side plaited, $25

Larger women's skirts, plaids, stripes, checks; belts 34 to 40, $16.50 to $39.75

BRIEFS

New Dresden heatherbloom petticoats are gay deceivers—they look so much like taffeta, and rustle like it, too. $3.50. Third floor.

Polo coats for Spring. Warmth without weight, and their three-quarters length is a happy change from the long winter coat. Misses' coat shop, fourth floor, $50. Women's coat shop, fifth floor, $65.

Like a breath of Spring—flower-trimmed straw hats, $10. Glycerine-dipped raffia hats, in exclusive Jean models. Made in Filene's. $17.50. Sixth floor.

Women's boots marked down—more than half a dozen kinds. Sizes and widths not complete in every case, but excellent values. $3.85 to $9.85. Fifth floor.

5 new styles of new Grace corsets at the prices hard to find, $1.50 and $2

Three styles at $1.50—two in pink and one in white. All have low tops, one of the pink styles has elastic top inserts, in the other two styles bones are flossed at the bottom. Sizes 20 to 28.

Two styles at $2. Choose from pink and white. Both are daintily finished with embrodery bands at the top; bones are stitched and embroidered at the bottom. Sizes 20 to 28.

Grace corsets are exclusive to Filene's. Women say they are unusual values always.

For those who don't care for the square neck there is the pointed neck, or the round neck. Some close down the front, others in the back, and one style has an elastic belt. All $1.55.

Three sketched—at the left, dress-like aprons, candy stripe percale, elastic belt. 34 to 44. $1.55.

Central sketch—striped gingham aprons, front opening, all 'round belt slips through pockets. $1.55.

Third sketch—small check gingham aprons, open clear down the back with belt across; trimmed with plain color. $1.55.

Filene's—mail orders filled—third floor.

MAY PAY INCOME TAX WITH U. S. CERTIFICATES

Treasury certificates of indebtedness will be accepted for income and profits taxes payable on or before March 15, 1920, according to a statement by Acting Collector Andrew J. Casey. He said also that taxpayers desiring to pay in this way should communicate with the collector of the district in which the taxes are payable and request from him authority to collect said certificates with the Federal Reserve Bank or branch in the city in which the certificates are [illegible]

The Dessert That Saved Betty's Party

"Betty wants me to give a party for her on her 13th birthday next week," said Mrs. Lord [illegible] I was dreading to talk to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] third party.

"[illegible] know what to have for eating this week. I'm tired of ice cream and ice treat for them, for summer is pudding time are always thin and limps, and ice cream is so expensive."

"Have you thought about having Pudding?" questioned her neighbor. "My children love it and it's so pure and wholesome."

"What is Pudding?"

"It makes a delightful many-mold of dessert. Here is a how and one box of Pudding serves [illegible] people.

"It is [illegible] to make. Pudding" [illegible] English [illegible] naturally. "It [illegible] and I [illegible] All you [illegible] fresh or [illegible] and [illegible] for three [illegible] Pour it into a mold and after it has cooled you have a firm, smooth mold of delicious dessert—chocolate, rose vanilla, orange, lemon—in fact, whatever you like best, for Pudding comes in a number of flavors.

"I'm a mind to try it, and to Betty [illegible] party after all," said Mrs. Lord.

"As a matter of fact, a genius how friend [illegible] [illegible] with how much one can [illegible] Pudding makes [illegible] ice cream [illegible] and economical [illegible] Pudding [illegible] Pudding [illegible]

Some [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] "I've been waiting to tell you all" explained Mrs. Lord. "Pudding is wonderful. I had the party for Betty and I don't know when I have seen children enjoy any thing as much as they did that Pudding. I had enough left over for supper that night, and Henry said he had never tasted such delicious dessert.

CARRIES DEAD CHILD TO TOWN FOR BURIAL

Oneco, Ct., Feb. 20.—An example of how the country roads are blocked with snow was shown when John Deacon came driving into town from the hill country carrying a casket in which was the body of his newborn child. It died for lack of medical attention, it being impossible for the doctor to attend Mrs. Deacon. The lodge was power in the local receiving vault. During the past two weeks it has been impossible for persons here or the state road has not been broken out.

SUES BELMONT'S SON FOR $15,000

Raymond Ignored an I. O. U. for Roulette Debt, Claims Newport Man

New York, Feb. 20.—Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, banker and sportsman, and now associated with his father in the banking business, has been made defendant in a suit brought by F. W. Hankin of Newport in the Supreme Court to recover payment of a $12,000 I. O. U. given by young Belmont after playing roulet in August, 1918. The complaint states that repeated demands for payment have been ignored.

Belmont, in his answer, admits signing the I. O. U., but claims that, inasmuch as more than six years have elapsed, the debt is outlawed and also that, as it was given in settlement of a game of chance, it was an illegal debt and therefore uncollectable.

Henry A. Wishart, counsel for Belmont, said he had not had time to go into the merits of the case with his client, but he had no doubt there were some exceptional circumstances which caused Mr. Belmont to avoid payment.

Raymond Belmont is been twice married. He was divorced from his first wife, Ethel Lorraine Belmont, and settled a large sum of money upon her in lieu of alimony. In 1916 (in September 30, 1916) he was married to Miss Carolyn B. Hulbert, in Middlebury, Vt.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh two, three or four pounds a week without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is highly important and useful addition to its famous necessities. Just such a substance of good results, however, follow the use of these pleasant harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous prescription first published in the Medical Journal) are not sold at any druggist's or the package, but may be had through the Detroit Chemical Co. for one dollar. Full large cases should be regularly worth a great deal more, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are for sale

Mary Garden Coming in "Aphrodite"

Mary Garden, famous opera Star, who will take leading role in new opera, appearing at the Boston Opera House in March

Mary Garden has added the role of "Aphrodite" in Erlanger's operas, to her long list of voluptuous operatic heroines, which include Thais, Louise and Melisande, none of them much better than they should be.

And Boston is to see Miss Garden in the opera of "Aphrodite" before it is seen in Chicago or New York, Dorothy Tatton in the play "Aphrodite." It will be given the second night of the Chicago Opera season at the Boston Opera House in March.

"Aphrodite" is the title of a romance written years ago by Pierre Louys a French novelist of amazing frankness and a love for indiscreet detail. It was made into a play and was produced at the Theatre Renaissance in Paris by Cora Laparcerie a Parisian favorite in 1914. It was this play which was secured by Morris Gest and produced upon a very spectacular and elaborate scale at the Century Theatre this season.

It has already been given in Chicago as an opera with Garden and Johnson, the new American tenor. It will get its New York premier at the Lexington Avenue Opera House next week.

McCALL ISSUES APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR SMITH

Northampton, Feb. 20—Ex-Governor Samuel W. McCall issued an appeal here today to aid the drive of Smith College alumnae for a $4,000,000 endowment fund. Professors Charles are so small Mr. McCall declares, that one is reduced to mention them. He added "Smith has had its women on her faculty who have had to retire with little or nothing left but the gratitude of thousands of educated women."

MARANVILLE HERE TODAY TO TALK IT OVER WITH GRANT

"Rabbit" Maranville, Brave star and holdout, will undoubtedly be a member in good standing again ere darkness falls around this wintry day. The midget shortstop, who wants more than the club offered him, came to Boston today to talk matters over with President George W. Grant.

There are no hard feelings, or anything of the kind between the pair. The differences in the money matter will be ironed out after both sides of the case are presented and discussed. The magnate wants the athlete—needs him—and that's all there's to it.

The Rabbit wants to play in Boston, but thinks he should be as highly paid as the other super athletes of the National pastime. Lawyer Grant has declared that the straps were off the banaroo when it came to getting anything of real value for the Braves, and the matter of a few hundred dollars will not stop him when it comes to signing up the best shortstop in the league.

Bobby Walthour Sues Wife for Divorce

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 20—Charging that his wife became infatuated with another man while he was doing war work in France, Bobby Walthour, former star of the six-day bicycle racing game, has filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Blanche Walthour, of Newark, N. J.

Bobby also alleges that his better half frequently threatened to kill him and tried to do so on one occasion with a butcher knife.

SKILTON BIG AID TO ALL-STARS

Boston Olympic Team Aspirants Clash with Dartmouth Club at Pavilion

PAVILION LINE-UP

ALL STARS.		DARTMOUTH CLUB.
Downing, Gervan	L.w.	Paisley
Hutchinson, Synnott	c.	Murphy
Percy, Lw.	r.w.	Holmes
Skilton, O'Sullivan	g.p.	Tuck
Small, Ba	p.	Murchie
Donahue, Ga	c.	Sleiden

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Skilt, scrapping and Skilton are scheduled att he Ice Pavilion this evening in the meeting of the Boston All Stars and the Dartmouth Club.

Hal George W. Brown, manager of the All-Stars, seen fit to return Donahue as well as Tuck to the Green graduate array, the two teams would meet at practically even terms and the outcome would have been in doubt until the final whistle. As it is the All-Stars, with Donahue at goal, gain a decided advantage in that most important position, and unless Bunny Holden plays as he never before or Art Donahue experiences a poor evening the All-Stars should register a victory.

That they will have to work and work hard for every point seems certain, however, and to add to the attractiveness of the contest will come the working-out of several problems in which many are interested. The return of Skilton to the game, and the development of the Tuck-Skilton controversy, which was inaugurated in a recent practice game, is one of the features. The other has to do with the candidacy of Murphy and Murchie for positions on the All-Star team.

RUSSELL EASY FOR WILDE

Mickey Never Had Chance with Clever Briton; Referee Stops Bout in Seventh Round

Jersey City, Feb. 20.—Jimmy Wilde, the clever British flyweight, made his Eastern debut here at the Fourth Regiment armory, and it was successful. The performance was wonderful for all but Mickey Russell. Mickey was fighting Wilde.

Five seconds before the seventh round was over, Wilde drove Mickey to the ropes and Referee Erne stopped the slaughter.

Russell never had a look-in and was really a million-to-one shot. Many expected Wilde to stop Russell in the third. The Briton had sent Mickey reeling to the ropes with terrible jabs, and it looked "curtains," but the poor lamb lasted all but five seconds of four more sessions of massacre.

PINE TREE A. C. HAS FINE CARD

Memphis Pal Moore to Meet Jack Sharkey in Double Six-Rounder Monday

By RINGSIDE

Memphis Pal Moore, one of the world's greatest bantamweights, and Jack Sharkey of New York, who defeated Jimmy Wilde at Milwaukee, should furnish a brilliant contest when they meet in two six-round bouts at the Pine Tree A. C. of Portland next Monday night. It is one of the most important bookings made this year by a New England club.

Matchmaker Frankie DeRico announces that both boxers will arrive in Portland Sunday so that they will be able to rest up for the contest.

The match is virtually a championship affair as Moore is considered a better fighter than Pete Herman, world's bantamweight champion. Moore recently returned from Europe where he knocked out Cirgul, the French bantamweight champion, in fourteen rounds. While overseas he fought Wilde twice. The Memphis star won the first encounter while he lost a questionable decision in the second battle.

Sharkey won international fame when he bested Wilde at Milwaukee.

McGOWAN SEEMS SURE TO WIN SKATING TITLE

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 20.—With a big lead over his closest rival, Everett McGowan of St. Paul seems certain to capture the international skating championship. The failure of Jestraw of Lake Placid, Eastern amateur champion, to win in the 440-yard dash virtually eliminates him.

$225,000 Estate Left to "Bat" Nelson

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Matthew Oscar (Battling) Nelson, better known to sport fans as "Bat" Nelson, former lightweight champion, is heir to the $225,000 estate bequeathed to him in the will of his father.

The money, it is understood, originally belonged to "Bat," representing his earnings while in the ring.

BROOKLINE HIGH WINS FIVE-CORNERED MEET

Brookline High, displaying great strength in the field events, topped the scoring totals with 30 points in the five-cornered meet in the Commerce gymnasium. Newton, the leader after the running events Wednesday, was second with 22 points. Commerce finished third with 18. Dorchester was next, having the same number of points, 12, as its athletes gathered in the first eight events, and Marblehead trailed with 5.

KETONEN DEFEATS KILONIS IN TWO HOURS, 34 MINUTES

Waino Ketonen, the world's middleweight wrestler, successfully defended his title against John Kilonis, the Greek champion, at Mechanics Building and some 4,500 wrestling fans got an eyeful of action watching him do it. For 2 hours and 34 minutes the pair wrestled with breathing spells coming in seconds as they grappled ferociously in and out of the ring.

The last half hour had the crowd almost continually on its feet, shifting its frantic favor as one or the other gained the edge. Ketonen gained the fall with a half-chancery and body roll. A few seconds before Joe Kilourv, the referee, with wilted collar and perspiring face, slapped the farmer's shoulders, Ketonen was kneeling underneath with Kilonis fastening a scissors around his body. As he raised upright, Ketonen flung Kilonis backward. The Greek landed flat on his back and was instantly smothered by the champion.

The bout was a repetition of the memorable contest of the pair on New Year's when Ketonen won with a toe hold with both men exhausted. At this finish, Ketonen was in far better shape than Kilonis who had to be assisted from the mat.

The fall came decisively and cleanly. Up to that moment Ketonen shaded Kilonis on points, the latter being continually in desperate straits under the pressure of the champion's leg scissors, leg crotch-holds and smothering body-holds. Twice Kilonis saved himself from a certain fall by squirming off the mat, the latter time under a double toe-hold. Nevertheless, there was no certainty as to the winner until the fall came.

So even was the bout that the fans clamored for a return match again, but Mike Yokel has been booked to meet Ketonen at the Grand Opera House next week. Yokel defeated Young Sanders in the preliminary.

EVERYSAPP.

FIGURING on Sundays, holidays and wood alcohol, there are very few working days in February. Lincoln and Washington are two great men for whom we work a day less. Alexander Graham Bell is a famous gent, in whose honor we work a day more.

ALEX is the bird who invented the busy wire.

BY the use of electricity, Alex demonstrated that it was possible to throw a voice or a fit over a hunk of wire. His first experiment was successful, and millions of folks are working themselves ragged trying to verify the rumor. The old-fashioned phone used to be placed out in the open, but as soon as married folks started using the phones, the company had to put the phones in soundproof booths.

THE booth is a formfitting chamber of horror, designed by the architect who drew the original plans for the Inquisitions of the Dark Ages. It is just large enough to smother one client. The ventilating system is the same one employed in the sausage room of the municipal dog pound. The telephone itself is a fine example of the profane arts. There is a mouthpiece from which the adenoids have never been removed. There is also a dumbbell hanging on a hook. All bait is hung on hooks. You pick up the dumbbell and raise it to your ear fifty times. You develop the other arm by dropping nickels in the coin trap. You can vary the monotony by chinning yourself on the mouthpiece. When you feel yourself turning sour, don't forget Smilax 8200, Boston's leading undertaker and the man who thinks that Joe Miller wrote the funeral prayer.

FOR the purpose of illustration, we will take the average subscriber and label him Everysapp. He is the hero of "My Four Years in a Phone Booth," by Slambassador Grrard.

EVERYSAPP flatwheels into the booth. Takes dumbbell off the hook. Drops fare into trap. Gets five cents' worth of silence. Jiggles hook and gets no chirp. Hi- famous poker face starts to fold up on him. The harp that once on Tara's Halls is no muter than the phone. He drops another nickel into the tournament, and it sounds like a doughnut dropping into a dish of hot fat. He gets a rumble.

"WIRE'S busy."
"Hey, I ain't asked for no number yet. How do you know it's busy?"
"Wire's busy."
"Well, it cost me two nickels. Couldn't it be busy for a nickel?"

CENTRAL throws plug into high, cuts out muffler and gives Everysapp a nickel's worth of boiler making. His ears start cooking. Noise stops and his two nickels have joined the great majority. He drops another jit in. A habit is hard to break. Gets polite.

"CENTRAL, I'm sorry to spoil your nap."
"Miss Central to you, if you please."
"Miss Central is right. That's all I ever do."
"What do you want? Wire's busy."
"I don't want any wire."
"Well, it's busy even if you don't want it. What do you want?"
"Listen to this. Domm dule, bowast, hockwei domm dule. That's swearing in Chinese."
"I'm a lady——"
"You ain't no Chinese lady, are you? Gimme"——

ALL the central gimmies him is a trip to Coventry. He starts sharp-shooting with his nickels and swats the bell each time. The twilight passes into darkness, the darkness into dawn and the February sun pops up over the horizon to do the snow contractor's work. The telephone's pulse is beating feebly. Another tumble.

"WIRE'S busy."
"Central, you are the only flapper I know who could stick to her original statement."
"Wire's busy."
"What kind of poisoned candy do you like, Central?"
"Wire's busy. What do you want?"
"Nothing. I only wanted to tell my wife that I won't be home last night. She ought to know it by now herself."

EVERYSAPP falls into a male swoon. Central presses the release button and a blizzard of nickels fall gently over his body, hiding the venerable ruins like the Babes in the Woods in their quilt of poison oak leaves. Everysapp had gone where there is no telephoning or giving in telephoning.

Tech Grapplers Win from Tufts Team

Tech freshman wrestlers defeated Tufts freshmen at Tech by four falls to one decision, Tufts' only score came in the final bout when Kaattari won the decision over Hackett of M. I. THREE 10-ROUND BOUTS AT C. A. C.

Martin Faces Jawson in Main Event of Evening; Plause to Box Greek Alger

By JACK CONWAY.

Three ten-round bouts and a six-session scrap will be staged at the Commercial A. C. tonight. The rival boxers are well matched and should furnish plenty of lively milling.

Vincent Martin of Buffalo will have Joe Jawson, who hails from Milwaukee, as an opponent in the feature number of ten rounds. Martin recently made his Boston debut at the Buffolk A. A. He had Billy Fitzsimmons of Yonkers as an opponent and won by a kayo in three rounds. Jawson comes here rated as a good performer and feels confident that he will make things interesting for his opponent.

Rudy Plause of Whitman will swap blows with Greek Alger of the South End in another ten-round bout. Plause has been active in New England rings for a couple of years, while Alger has been a frequent performer in local rings. Just now Alger is numbered among the regiment of boxers who would like to exchange blows with Kayo Mugsey.

The other ten-round number will bring together Harry Silva of the West End and Nap Lajoie, who calls Brockton home.

Willie Coogan of South Boston will oppose Flash Rogers of the North End in the opening six-round prelim vs. Johnny Veto, Chelsea.

DRONEY MEETS BRITT AT COMMONWEALTH A. C.

Tim Droney, Lancaster, Pa., lightweight, will make his Boston debut tomorrow night when he clashes with Frankie (Young) Britt in a twelve-round contest at the Commonwealth A. A. Droney has quite a record. Among other things he won a decision from Willie Jackson at New Orleans after twenty rounds of milling. He has also bested Joe Tiplis and George Chaney in six-round bouts in Philadelphia. Kid Francis of Lawrence will oppose Johnny Sullivan of South Boston in the semi-final of eight rounds. There will also be two stars.

TECH AND HARVARD NEAR ATHLETIC BREAK

Tech and Harvard are nearing a break in athletics. The Tech track team, from Coach Frank M. Kanaly down is sore clean through at the way they have been treated lately by the Crimson.

The last straw came in the dual meet at the Stadium Saturday, when Harvard refused to go on with the two-mile run, supposed to be Tech's strongest event. Harvard claims cancellation of the event beforehand with Tech's consent. Coach Kanaly of the engineers denies this.

32 ROUNDS OF BOXING AT COLISEUM A. C.

The Coliseum A. C. of Quincy has announced four bouts, totalling thirty-two rounds of boxing, for its Monday night show. The card: Six rounds, Young Houillard, West Quincy, vs. Young Gerrical, Quincy Adams; eight rounds, Johnny Hepburn, Quincy, vs. Mack Murphy, Norfolk Downs; eight rounds, Girard Ginni, Lawrence, vs. Sergeant Swanson, Camp Devens; ten rounds, Billy Carney, New Bedford, vs. Kid Lee, Providence; six rounds, Jack Reno, Chelsea, vs. Jimmy Cleary, Quincy.

TECH STUDENTS GOOD BOXERS

Coach Boutilier Has All-Star Team In Line for College Ring Honors

The M. I. T. boxing team has been selected for the intercollegiate tournament, in which the Tech boys will take part with the exception of the 158-pound class. This class will be decided Tuesday when F. L. Bradley meets P. C. Ayer.

The men selected by Coach Boutilier yesterday are: T. P. Barnard, 115; Captain A. D. Addicks, 125; F. Paul, 135; E. Christenson, 145, and T. Procter, 175.

This is the first year that boxing has been a recognized sport at Tech and under the careful training of "Nap" Boutilier, assisted by Willie Corbett, the team is making great progress.

Matches have been made with Yale at New Haven for March 13, Pennsylvania for March 6, and Springfield Y. M. C. A. for April 2. Negotiations are under way for matches with Tufts, New York Aggies, University of Pennsylvania and Anapolis.

Boutilier, the coach, was the former national amateur champion in the 115, 158 and the 175-pound classes in 1903-9-11, and the New England champion in 1902-3-5.

Boxing has come into such prominence at the college this year that an Intercollegiate Boxing League which will be modeled after the Wrestling League will most likely come in effect next season. All the colleges at which boxing is a recognized sport will be in this league.

The match that was scheduled with Harvard for the latter part of March has been cancelled and the two colleges will not meet this season.

In the final series of bouts held in Walker Gym to determine the make-up of the boxing team, T. H. Harnard defeated J. R. Curry in the 115-pound class; F. C. Paul outboxed H. Ten Eyck in the 135-pound class; Egil Christensen won from M. Sergen in the 145-pound class, and C. T. Proctor got the decision over J. A. Hayes in the 175-pound class.

400 SCHOOLBOYS IN BIG MEET

More Than Twenty Teams to Take Part In Huntington School Games Tomorrow

The Greater Boston Interscholastic meet which is to be held at the Boston Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tomorrow, will have more than twenty schools and 400 boys participating. This meet is conducted by Huntington School and will take the place of the B. A. A. schoolboy meet of former year. The entry lists show numerous athletes of high ability.

The first event will be called at 1:45—the 50-yard dash. Then will be seven heats. Smith of Mosses Brown and Wingate of Noble & Greenough, in the first heat; Cassell of B. C. High and Ray Duffey of Brighton in the second; Caffey of Medford and Anderson of Lynn Classical, in the third; DeWitt of Boston English and Garrity of Newton, in the fourth; Draper of Wakefield and Corcoran of Brookline, in the fifth; Mortimer of Lynn Classical and Marley of Commerce, in the sixth; Reid of Moses Brown and Flaherty of B. C. High in the seventh, are some of the speedy entrants.

Hussey Has Pole in 300-Yard Dash

In the 300-yard dash, Gene Hussey of Hyde Park will have the advantage of the pole position. Johnny Foster of English, Wilson of B. C. High, Herlihy of Lynn Classical, Bedell of Commerce and Bell of Newton are others who will be in the fight for honors.

The 45-yard hurdles will have a classy field, with Herb Ellis and Johnny Hull of Latin School, Dan Whelton of English, Lyons of Newton and Murphy of Noble-Greenough entered. Ellis has not been defeated this season.

Walsh Favorite in 1,000-Yard Run

Pete Walsh, the star of schoolboy 1000-yard runners, will be the favorite in his event. Al Burke of Wakefield Murphy of B. C. High and Noyes of Marblehead will give him plenty of competition.

The 600-yard run will have Chase, Rooney of B. C. High, Mahoney of English, Garrity of Newton and Archibald of Brookline among the entries. Rooney and Archibald are the favorites.

LOUIS LEONARD GOES IN TRAINING FOR BOUTS

Louis Leonard is not the least bit discouraged as a result of his setback at the hands of Harry (Kid) Brown. Jack Reno announces that Leonard will start training next week and that he will then be prepared to meet all-comers. Leonard more courage in his tussle with Brown than is the rule among our New England glove men. The Y. D. here should receive the consideration of matchmakers desiring real contests at their clubs.

YALE SEEKS $300,000 TO COMPLETE BOWL

New Haven, Feb. 20.—Yale has started a campaign for the raising of $300,000 to complete the Yale Bowl.

In return for contributions, rights to seats in the best sections will be given in the proportion of one seat for every $100 contributed. No more than ten seats, however, will be allowed to one contributor.

CAMBRIDGE LATIN BEATS B. C. HIGH TANK TEAM

The "Angry Tree"

The Cinema Murder

A Mystery Film Serial of Love and Intrigue in England and New York

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

"A STRANGER!" he exclaimed derisively. "Yet you come here to his rooms early in the evening, you stay here, you go to the theatre with him the same night, you go on to supper at Churchill's and stay there till three o'clock in the morning, you are here with him again at nine o'clock—at breakfast time. A stranger, Miss Wenderly. Think again! A story like that might do for Scotland Yard. It won't do for us out here."

She knew at once what she had fallen into a trap, but she was not wholly dismayed. The position was one which they had half anticipated. She told herself that he was bluffing, that it was simply the outburst of a disappointed man. On the whole, she behaved extraordinarily well.

"You brought me here, she said, "to confront me with this man—to identify him, if I could, as Mr. Douglas Romilly. Well, he isn't Mr. Douglas Romilly, and that's all there is about it. We're going out with him no more clothing. I can't see that that's any concern of any one. He was kind to me, showed me up when he was that I was disappointed; I told him my whole story and that I didn't know a soul in New York, and he became friends. That's all there is about it.

Snapped at Him

"That so?" the detective observed, with quiet sarcasm. "You seem to have a knack of making friends pretty easily, Miss Wenderley."

It is my own business if I have," she snapped.

"Well, we'll have that then," he conceded. "I haven't quite finished with you yet, though. There are just one or two more points I am going to put before you—and this gentleman who is not Mr. Douglas Romilly," he added, with a little bow to Philip. "The first is this. There is one fact which we can all three take for granted, because I know it—I can prove it a hundred times over—and you both know it; and that is that the Mr. Marton Ware of today traveled from Liverpool on the Etruscia as Mr. Douglas Romilly, occupied a room at the Waldorf Astoria as Mr. Douglas Romilly, and absconded from there, leaving his luggage and his identity behind him, to blossom out in an attic of the Monmouth tenement house as Mr. Marton Ware, a young writer of plays.

"Now I don't think," Mr. Dane went on, hanging a little further over the table, "that the Mr. Douglas Romilly who has disappeared was ever capable of writing a play. I don't think he was a man of talent at all. I don't think he could have written, for instance, 'The House of Shame.' Let us, however, leave the subject of Douglas Romilly for a moment. Let us go a little further back—to Detroit, Michigan, let us say. Curiously enough, there was another young man who disappeared from that little Derbyshire village about the same time, who has never been heard of since.

"His name, too, was Romilly. I gathered, during the course of my recent inquiries, that he was a poor relation, a cousin of Mr. Douglas Romilly."

"Stuff and nonsense!" interposed Olive. "Let's think about some grub. I've brought back sausages for breakfast."

"Sakie, the mother of the black babies, had fetched in the parcels from the cart, and already there was a sizzling sound in the kitchen. The rest of the household proudly conducted April to the guest-chamber. There was nothing in it except a packing-case and a bed, but the walls were covered with noble studies of mountains. Olive pointed out some large holes in the floor, warning April not to get her foot twisted in them.

Only an Old Cobra

"I don't think there are any snakes here," she said, carelessly. "There is an old cobra under the dining room floor, and we often hear her hissing to herself, but she never does any harm."

"It is better to sleep under a mosquito net at night," Olivette recommended.

"We all do."

Before the afternoon April had settled down among them as if she had lived there always. Sarie and his sisters seemed like a fond dream; the menace of Kenna was forgotten. For the first time in her existence she let herself drift with the tide, taking no thought for the morrow or the ultimate port at which her boat would "swing to." It was long before it all ended, yet none of the dwellers at Ho-sie-le-ia idled. It is true that Olivette and Bella Helena were cronies, but they worked at the business of repairing their bodies to tackle the battle of life once more.

April soon discovered that they were only two of the many of Clive's comrades who came broken to the farm and went away healed by the wise drugs and does away with stomach dosing. Jean, breaking through her little black pocket inhaler that came with each outfit.

A complete outfit costs but little at any reliable druggist and Hyomei is guaranteed to banish catarrh, croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and bronchitis or money back. A Hyomei inhaler lasts a lifetime and extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained from druggists for a few cents.

MI-O-NA Ends indigestion

It relieves stomach misery, sour stomach, belching and all stomach disorders or money back. Large box of tablets 50 cents. Druggists in all towns.

"I never heard of the fellow in my life," Philip replied pleasantly, but don't go, Mr Dane. You can't imagine how interesting this is to me. You have sent me a most charming acquaintance," he added, bowing to Beatrice, "and you have provided me with what I can assure you is almost pathetically scarce in these days—new and very dramatic idea. Take a seat, won't you, and what with us a little longer? Tell us how you came to think of all this? I have always held that the workings of a criminologist's brain must be one of the most interesting studies in life."

Mr Dane smiled enigmatically.

"Ah!" he protested, "you mustn't ask me to disclose my secrets."

"You wouldn't care to tell us a little about your future intentions?" Philip enquired

Mr. Dane shook his head.

"It is very kind of you, Mr. Marton Ware," he confessed, "to let me down so gently. We all make mistakes, of course. As to my future intentions, well, I am not quite sure that I am not going to have a little run up to me to hunt out English criminals, so long as they behave themselves in this city. If an extradition order or anything of that sort came my way, I would of course, be different."

"Why not lay this interesting theory of yours before the authorities at Scotland Yard?" Philip suggested. "I am sure they would listen with immense interest to any report from you."

"That's some idea, certainly," the detective admitted, taking up his hat from the table. "For the present I'll wish you both good morning—or shall I say au revoir?"

"We may look for the pleasure of another visit from you, then?" Philip inquired politely.

The detective faced them from the doorway.

"Sir," he said to Philip, "I admire your nerve, and I admire the nerve of your old sweetheart, Miss Wenderley. I am afraid I cannot promise you however, that this will be my last visit."

Hoop Skirts and Tight Waists

From Good Housekeeping

The gown at the right cleverly combines black velvet with white tulle, one of the sheerest of materials, which is used as corsage and side panels, with pink roses, to give a touch of color in front. At the left is a removable jacket, making an evening and afternoon gown in one. The waist is of green velvet crepe georgette threaded with gold.

The Compleat Angling

A Guide to Matrimony—In One Lesson

By HELEN ROWLAND

(Copyright, 1920, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

GREET him with that "Oh, aren't you wonderful!" smile.

Say nothing—until he has run out of platitudes.

Then ask him if he plays golf.

Gradually lead him to tell you all about "that wonderful shot" he made four years ago. (You won't understand it—but you can look amazed.)

Let him FINISH!

Ask him if he is as strong as he looks! Admire his shoulders

Let him tell you all about his ailments and how he suffers.

Ask him how the war has affected his business

Let him tell you all about his troubles at the office, and how unreasonable the boss is, and what a lot of "dubs" the rest of the office force are.

Murmur sympathetically. Call him "Poor boy!"

AGREE with him—absolutely!

Let him tell you "all he knows about women" Encourage him to "confide" in you. (You know where these platonic heart-to-heart talks lead! Inspire him to confess his "sentimental affairs.")

Ask him to let you read his palm. Tell him what a wonderful keen reasoning faculty he possesses; what marvellous judgment!

Tell him he should have been a lawyer.

Tell him he "ought to write a book about his life"!

Tell him he is too kind hearted for his own good

Get out the chafing dish—and FEED him.

During the process try to look cute and awfully domestic.

Tell him that "mother's teaching you how to cook, that you are "dreadfully old-fashioned," you guess; that you make all your own clothes—

And that you never, NEVER intend to marry! (This is the mustard gas!)

After while suggest that the lights hurt your eyes—and let him turn out all except the rose-colored lamp beside the piano.

Play something soft and low—and sad.

Or, better still, put a Mischa Elman record on the phonograph.

Sigh—a little.

Glance up with a look of consternation at the clock. Tell him he simply must run along. You didn't DREAM it was so late! How time flies——

Insist on holding his overcoat for him. Ask him why he didn't wear a muffler.

Pat his shoulder with that motherly, impersonal, "You poor neglected boy!" air.

If this doesn't bring something definite within a week——

Try another man!

He is immune!

April Folly

By Cynthia Stockley

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"April Folly," soon to be seen in leading motion picture theatres, is a Cosmopolitan production, released through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture, under direction of Robert G. Leonard. Scenario by Adrian Johnson.

"WELCOME to the home for derelicts, broken china and old crocks!" they said. "You may think you are none of these things, but there must be something the matter with you or you wouldn't be here."

"Too true," thought April, but smilingly answered:

"There doesn't seem much wrong with you."

"Oh, there is though! Ghostie is a journalist recovering from having the soul trampled out of her by Johannesburg dews. I am a singer with a sore throat and a chronic pain in my right kidney that I am trying to wash away with the juice of Olive's apricots and the milk from Olive's cows."

"Stuff and," interposed Olive. "Let's think about some grub. I've brought back sausages for breakfast."

Sakie, the mother of the black babies, had fetched in the parcels from the cart, and already there was a sizzling sound in the kitchen. The rest of the household proudly conducted April to the guest-chamber. There was nothing in it except a packing-case and a bed, but the walls were covered with noble studies of mountains. Olive pointed out some large holes in the floor, warning April not to get her foot twisted in them.

Only an Old Cobra

"I don't think there are any snakes here," she said, carelessly. "There is an old cobra under the dining room floor, and we often hear her hissing to herself, but she never does any harm."

"It is better to sleep under a mosquito net at night," Ghostie recommended.

"We all do."

Before the afternoon April had settled down among them as if she had lived there always. Sarie and his sisters seemed like a fond dream; the menace of Kenna was forgotten. For the first time in her existence she let herself drift with the tide, taking no thought for the morrow or the ultimate port at which her boat would "swing to." It was long before it all ended, yet none of the dwellers at Ho-sie-le-ia idled. It is true that Ghostie and Bella Helena were cronies, but they worked at the business of repairing their bodies to tackle the battle of life once more.

April soon discovered that they were only two of the many of Clive's comrades who came broken to the farm and went away healed by the wise drugs and does away with stomach dosing. Jean, breaking through her little black pocket inhaler that came with each outfit.

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"THEIS is Miss Courtney speaking," she told the maid who answered her call. "May I speak with Mr. Rodney, please?"

"Good morning, Mr. Rodney" she said a minute later. "No, this is not Doris. It is Ruth I am speaking for my sister. She is not very well this morning. How is Hugh?"

"He had a restless night," the father informed her. "His symptoms are not so good as we could wish. His nervousness is intense. But we hope it may be only the result of the journey and of the strain of yesterday's consultation."

"Shall you be at home this morning?" Ruth asked. "May I see you if I come to your house?"

"I shall be here until noontime. Laura is so much better that you may see her, too. But what do you wish to speak to me about my child?" There is nothing wrong up there? Doris is well enough to come out today, isn't she?"

Ruth replied, truthfully: "Yes, she is well enough to be out today."

"What message may I give Hugh from you When may I tell him to expect her?"

This time the answer was long in coming, yet it was clear and concise—not at all truthful as its predecessor.

"Tell Hugh he may expect Doris at twelve o'clock, please. Good-bye."

She hung up the receiver and stood very still, knowing that her mother would declare her presence soon. The daughter prayed for strength to answer any question frankly and without reserve.

She had not long to wait. Briskly, as if she had just emerged from the dining room, Mrs. Courtney stepped from the shadow of the rear hall.

"Ruth! she announced as her daughter rose and faced her "I could not help hearing a part of your conversation over the telephone You spoke much more loudly than was necessary—and I was just coming out of the dining-room."

"Yes—I know," Ruth affirmed.

"And I must demand an explanation from you," Mrs. Courtney continued.

Ruth was dumb, and, after a moment's pause for a reply, the mother went on with her discourse.

Brought to Book

"After our talk this morning, I was certainly much surprised to hear you make the statement to Mr. Rodney that your poor sister is well enough to be out of doors and would go to Hugh today Did she authorize you to give that message?"

"No," Ruth answered, "she did not, mother.

"The first statement I made was true. Doris is well enough to go out—although she has no intention of going."

"Yet," the mother gasped, "you actually had the effrontery to say to Mr. Rodney that Hugh might expect to see Doris at 12 o'clock! Why, that was an absolute falsehood"

"If you analyze my assertion you will see that it is not a falsehood," Ruth said gently. "And it will do Hugh no harm to expect Doris, as you must admit."

"Didn't she tell you that she would not go to him?"

"Yes—and she is not going, mother. But Hugh must not know that."

Mrs. Courtney made a movement of exasperation. "How stupid you are, Ruth! Don't you see that when noon comes, and she is not there, he must know it? Then it will be worse for him—won't it?"

"No," Ruth said quietly, lowering her voice that her agitation should not be evident "it will not be worse, for he will think she is there! Oh, let me have peace"

"Go in her place? What do you mean? Doris will not permit it."

"She will have to permit it," Ruth said. "And I think she will, she would prefer that to having the Rodneys know that she has been as good—or as bad—as engaged to another man while already engaged to be married to Hugh."

CHAPTER XXIX.

WHEN anyone refused to discuss a matter with Mrs Courtney, she was at a loss what to do. Speech was her strongest weapon, but it needed an opponent to keep it in full action. In her younger daughter this morning she found a strangely silent adversary.

To her exclamations and censure the girl made no reply, only stood dumbly by the little telephone table where her mother talked. At last the old woman paused, exasperated,

"I think that I am entitled to a reply of some sort, Ruth," she complained. "Beyond the statement that you contemplate such an insane action as impersonating Doris, you have taken me no further into your confidence."

"Because I have no further confidence to give. My plans are all contingent upon other people."

"Well, in the first place, you have no right to do this thing. It is disloyal to your sister."

No reply.

"In the second place, you will not be able to do it. Then what?"

Ruth must answer a direct question. She found her tongue then.

"Then I would fall, of course."

"And you propose to tell me nothing more?"

"There is nothing more to tell you, mother."

Mrs. Courtney turned away with much dignity and, in a silence that she meant to make crushing, went up to her room. She was sure that this course would startle her daughter into an appreciation of her mother's displeasure.

Instead, Ruth stood very still for some minutes after she had heard the door of Mrs. Courtney's bedroom close. She knew that the parent would probably "talking out" the affair to her elder child.

To Ruth all this made little difference now.

Parental Disapproval

She would not let it make any great difference, for at this juncture. She was concentrating all her will power upon the interview ahead of her when she would be face to face with Hugh's father.

A quarter of eleven she knocked at the door of her mother's room and entered, dressed for the street.

"I am going out now, mother," she ventured. "If I am not coming back for luncheon at 1 o'clock will telephone"

"Very well"

The matron did not look up from her sewing. Her face was hard and her lips were set in a thin line of disapproval.

Doris was not here. Ruth observed. She must have been up for some time, as Mrs. Courtney's room was in perfect order and her bed smooth.

For an instant the younger daughter hesitated. She was not in the habit of parting from her mother with a sense of estrangement. It hurt, or would, if she had had any place for hurt. She longed to speak a conciliatory word. Then she remembered that such might lead to further protests that would but unnerve her and not serve any good purpose.

"Good-bye, mother," dropping a kiss on the pale forehead.

The elderly woman did not return the salute. "Good morning," she murmured coldly.

With a heavy heart Ruth Courtney went from the house and walked rapidly to the Rodney home.

"I want to see Mr. Rodney, please," she told the maid who admitted her.

A minute later Daniel Rodney entered the drawing room where Ruth sat. She rose and held out her hand to him.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses freely recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

MUSTEROLE
WILL NOT BLISTER

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels become more or less clogged and then the kidneys can eliminate. Then the blood must find the skin and the mucal tract means of getting rid of these impurities, and they are plastered out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any druggist about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This is said to flush the kidneys of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleans the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" CHILD'S LAXATIVE

Look at tongue! Remove poisons from stomach, liver and bowels

Accept "California" Syrup of Figs only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless laxative or physic for the little stomach, liver and bowels. Children love its delicious, fruity taste. Full directions for children of all ages are on each bottle. Give it without fear.

Mother! You must say "California."—Advertisement.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Try this! Brush Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound through your hair, taking one strand at a time.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, at home, is troublesome and tiresome. All little cooks know that. Don't bother any more. The ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," is just as dependable and much more convenient.

Simply moisten a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This readily-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

For a few cents you can save your hair and double its beauty

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Help your hair grow strong, thick and long and become soft, fluffy and lustrous and beautiful and abundant.—Advertisement.

RESINOL

Be sure to get real Resinol

If you want to get rid of eczema, pimples, or other distressing skin eruption, you will accept no "substitute" for Resinol. Preparations similar in name or appearance are not "just the same as Resinol." Although a few unscrupulous dealers may offer them as or for Resinol, they are often crudely made, of little healing power, and none may even be dangerous to use. Buy in the original blue package.

Resinol is never sold in bulk.

The Valley of the Giants

By Peter B. Kyne

He bade her good-bye and started down the trail, his stick tapping against the old logging cable stretched from tree to tree beside the trail and marking it.

The father met Bryce and sent him to the grave under an excuse. Bryce's brisk step on the thick carpet of withered brown twigs aroused Shirley from her reverie. When she looked up, he was standing in the centre of the little amphitheatre gazing at her.

"You—you!" she stammered, and rose as if to flee from him.

He advanced smiling toward her. "I'm tremendously glad to see you today, Shirley," he said, and paused beside her. "Fate has been singularly kind to me. Indeed, I've been pondering all day as to just how I was to arrange a private and confidential little chat with you, without calling upon you at your uncle's house."

"I don't feel like chatting today," she answered a little drearily—and then he noted her wet lashes. Instantly he was on one knee beside her, with the amazing confidence that had always distinguished him in her eyes, his big left arm went around her, and when her hands went to her face, he drew them gently away.

"I've waited too long, sweetheart," he murmured. "Thank God, I can tell you at last all the things that have been accumulating in my heart. I love you, Shirley. I've loved you from the first day we met at the station, and all these months of strife and repression have merely served to make me love you the more. Perhaps you have been all the dearer to me because you seemed so hopelessly unattainable."

He drew her head down on his breast; his great hand patted her hot cheek; his honest brown eyes gazed earnestly, wistfully into hers. "I love you," he whispered. "All that I have—all that I am—all that I hope to be—I offer to you, Shirley Sumner; and in the shrine of my heart I shall hold you sacred while life shall last. You are not indifferent to me, dear. I know you're not; but tell me—answer me—"

Her violent eyes were uplifted to his, and in them he read the answer to his cry. "Ah, may I?" he murmured, and kissed her.

"Oh, my dear, impulsive, gentle big sweetheart," she whispered—and then her arms went around his neck, and the fullness of her happiness found vent in tears he did not seek to have her repress. In the safe haven of his arms she rested; and there, quite without effort or distress, she managed to convey to him something more than an inkling of the thoughts that were wont to come to her whenever they met.

"Oh, my love!" he cried happily, "I hadn't dared dream of such happiness until today. You were so unattainable—the obstacles between us were so many and so great—"

Explains to Her

"Why today, Bryce?" she interrupted him.

He took her adorable little nose in his great thumb and forefinger and tweaked it gently.

"The light began to dawn yesterday, my dear little enemy, following an interesting half-hour which I put in with His Honour the Mayor. Acting upon suspicion only, I told Boundstone I was prepared to send him to the rock-pile if he didn't behave himself in the matter of my permanent franchise for the N. C. O.—and the old sinner invertebrate crept and promised me anything if I wouldn't disgrace him. So I promised I wouldn't do anything until the franchise matter should be definitely settled—after which I returned to my office, to find awaiting me there no less a person than the right-of-way man for the Northwestern Pacific. He was a perfectly delightful young fellow, and he had a proposition to unfold. It seems the Northwestern Pacific has decided to build up from Willits, and all that nonsense and publicity of Buck Ogilvy's about the N. C. O. was in all probability the very thing that spurred them to action.

"They figured the C. M. & St. P. was back of the N. C. O.—that it was to be the first link of a chain of coast roads to be connected ultimately with the terminus of the C. M. & St. P. on Gray's Harbour, Washington. And if the N. C. O. should be built, it meant that a rival road would get the edge on them in the matter of every stick of Humboldt and Del Norte redwood—and they'd be left holding the sack."

"Why did they think that, dear?"

"That amusing rascal Buck Ogilvy used to be a C. M. & St. P. man; they thought they traced an analogy, I dare say. Perhaps Buck fibbed to them. At any rate, this right-of-way man was mighty anxious to know whether or not the N. C. O. had purchased from the Cardigan Redwood Lumber Company a site for a terminus on tidewater (we control all the deepwater frontage on the Bay), and when I told him the deal had not yet been closed, he started to close one with me."

"Did you close?"

"My dear girl, will a duck swim? Of course I closed. I sold three-quarters of all we had, for three quarters of a million dollars, and an hour ago I received a wire from my attorney in San Francisco informing me that the money had been deposited in escrow there awaiting formal deed. That money puts the Cardigan Redwood Lumber Company in the clear—no receivership for us now, my dear one. And I'm going to go ahead with the building of the N. C. O.—while our holdings are on the San Hedrin double in value, for the reason that within three years they will be accessible and can be logged over the rails of the Northwestern Pacific."

PERSHING INVITED TO VISIT WORCESTER

TENANTS TO CELEBRATE WIN OVER LANDLORDS

New York, Feb. 20.—Twenty-two tenants of the fashionable Biltmore Apartment house at No. 3424 Grand Concourse, Bronx, are going to eat, drink (water) and be merry at a banquet at the Hotel Astor early in March to celebrate the victory they scored before Municipal Court Justice Shlelin providing the validity of their leases. The new landlords of the apartment house, Morgenstein brothers, of No. 233 Broadway were overruled in their claims. That leases given by the former owner were valueless.

Nasty Colds

Get instant relief with "Pape's Cold Compound"

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a cold and ends all grippe misery.

The very first dose opens the clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of your head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness, stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist on Pape's!—Advertisement.

IT'S YOUR STEP THAT ATTRACTS!

Says women pay too much heed to their face instead of their corns.

Watch your step! A brisk, lively step is what charms more than a lovely skin, but your high heels have caused corns and you limp a little. That's bad, girls, and you know it. Corns destroy beauty and grace, besides corns are very easy to remove.

Rid your feet of every corn by asking at the drug store for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, achy corn relieves the soreness and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out without pain. This freezone is the discovery of a substance which dries instantly and simply shrivels up the corn without influencing or even irritating the surrounding skin.

Women must keep in mind that corn-like feet create a youthful size which enhances her attractiveness.—Advertisement.

Manufacturing Silver

Mining in proven silver ore bodies is manufacturing the article most needed all over the world. It is by far the most profitable industry. There is now a demand for more silver than can be produced. When you buy shares in an actual silver mine you buy an interest in an immense mass of silver in the ground that will pay you large profits as it is taken out. Let us send you details of a mine now shipping high grade Silver ore.

RAILS LEAD THE EARLY RISE

Motors and Oils Prominent in the Advance, While Steels Are Higher

By W. H. ROSS
Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, with steels in the lead and motors following. Rails were also fairly highest but not so active as earlier in the session. Gains ranged from fractions to nine points for General Motors. Strongest rails included Reading, St. Paul, Rock Island, Pere Marquette and St. Louis and San Francisco. They ruled about a point higher. Among steels Crucible and Republic advanced the most.

Call money ranged at 6 per cent. Demand sterling was higher, advancing 3¼ cents to 3.846 at the opening.

EARLY TREND WAS DOWNWARD.

Starting irregular as to price changes, the market moved downward at once. The retrogression was at slow as the recovery when pressure relaxed as it did within half an hour, and stocks began to rally. Before the end of an hour, prices for most issues were above the opening. Rails were early leaders, being the most active class. As a rule low-priced ones were off at the opening, but they and standard carriers participated in the recovery. Steels were unusually quiet in early trading and held steady when most issues were declining. Motors and oils were comparatively strong throughout the first hour, when for the list as a whole, fluctuations were narrow. Bears began the day with an attack on rails, but found offerings so readily absorbed that they did not prolong the drive. The buying was largely of the same character as on Thursday. It included accumulation by investors who think that railroads will be rehabilitated through the bill before Congress. The market was strong at mid-morning.

SENTIMENT WAS BETTER.

Sentiment in financial districts is more hopeful. Reports from New York regarding funds available for time loans were somewhat encouraging. Better bank statements for this week are looked for. The banking attitude is as conservative as ever, however. The revival of interesting railway shares is the most interesting feature of the market at present. It is predicted that in the course of time they will resume their leadership in speculation.

The failure of the Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty is accepted with more equanimity than its proponents expected. Belief spreads that European developments are making more and more questionable any closer political ties with Europe. The economic situation abroad is fast diminishing export business. Current are increasing and this change will do more than anything else could do in the way of stabilizing exchange rates. Sterling opened higher today.

The stock market is very professional just now. It is significant that some traders who have been operating for weeks as bears have shifted to the other side. Current opinion is that the usual Spring advance will occur on time.

Call Meeting In Dedham

Miss Mary Crowe and a committee in Dedham are arranging for a mass meeting under the auspices of the Patrick Pearse Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, next Tuesday, in aid of the Irish loan.

IT'S WHITE AND 90c

WORKERS: Do you know the meaning of CO-OPERATION? It means joint action. Some of you appear to think that it means joint sleep. You are asleep at your post if you do not co-operate with your CO-WORKERS in NEW SAFETY PAPER. IT'S WHITE. It's 90c, and it's going to $1 on its way to much higher prices. Why!

Because it is a WORKERS' PRODUCTIVE INDUSTRY, owned and operated by WORKMEN who have proved their ability to build U. S. destroyers in 45½ days which formerly took 1½ years to build. If they can do such good work for their government they believe they can do as well for themselves. They have picked out New Safety Paper upon which to demonstrate their ability to make and divide as big profits among themselves as they have previously done for Big Business. They believe that they can earn 30% dividends the 1st year, 60% the 2d and 100% the 3d. Another reason why IT'S WHITE.

If you want to join them it will be worth while for you to investigate the WHITE PAPER, the "White" proposition, and the "White Men" who are co-operating for better conditions and better incomes for the WORKINGMEN.

The PAPER is used for checks, drafts, stocks, bonds and every form of negotiable paper and IT'S WHITE. That's where it differs from all other Safety Papers.

Call at our office at an early date and avoid the WORKERS' RUSH. They are coming strong. If you wait much longer you will pay more.

Carson Hill Features the Exchange; Arizona Silver Active on Curb

In Boston at the opening prices were mixed, but the period of irregularity on the exchange was brief, for the market soon became strong. It was more active than before this week. Most of the trading was in a few issues. Carson Hill was again the feature. It opened with a small gain and later sold a point below yesterday's closing quotation. Before the end of the forenoon it rallied and recovered all its loss.

Among issues to advance a point or more were American Woolen preferred, Boston Elevated, Quincy, United Drug, Olio Body and Mexican Investment. New Haven was stronger than Boston & Maine. It showed a fractional gain most of the morning, while the other rail ruled a little lower. Among issues to advance a little were East Butte, North Butte, Isle Royale, Mayflower, Seneca, St. Mary's Land, New Cornelia, Davis Daly, Elder, Eastern Manufacturing, Rext & Van Dervoort and Waldorf.

New England Telephone was off a point and fractional losses were sustained by Calumet & Arizona, Mohawk, Parish & Bingham, Gray & Davis and Swift International.

Trading was quiet on the Curb with Arizona Silver the most active stock. Gulfport was another leader. Both advanced during the first hour.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

For the last eight months of 1919 surplus and undivided profits of the Waldorf System, Inc., totalled $240,243 and four surplus stock dividends and interest payments amounted to $60,000.

On March 16 General Electric Company stockholders will vote at a special meeting on authorizing $50,000,000 increase in the corporation's capital stock. It is believed that fiber will be offered later a part of the new stock at par.

The crescent drives on the 400-foot level to prospect the Foxwell vein in the Superior and Boston property is reported to have opened some of the richest ore ever found in this mine or in the district.

Increase in capital by Massachusetts Corporations includes A. M. Smith company, $200,000 to $300,000; Boston Confectionery Company, $700,000 to $1,100,000; Reliable Shoe and Slipper company, $100,000 to $500,000; Taber Wheeler Company, $100,000 to $250,000; Hall Shoe Company, $50,000 to $300,000; E. A. Abbott Company, $100,000 to $200,000.

Massachusetts corporations to file organization articles include the New England Pomeline, Inc., Boston, capital $100,000; American Bisque Porcelain Company, Boston, $100,000; Gravers' Bread Company, Boston, $100,000; Ideal Auto Company, Fitchburg, $150,000; Sea-Man Chevrolet Company, Boston, $150,000; the International Game Company, Ipswich $200,000.

David J. Boylan, president of the Boylan Bridge & Transportation Company, New York, and a director of the Old Colony International Company of New York, and Albert J. Norton, vice-president of the Commercial Trust Company of New York, have been elected directors of the New England Guaranty Corporation.

INTENSE COMMERCIAL DEMAND FOR MONEY

In its latest New England letter the First National Bank of Boston says: "The commercial demand for money, which reached a high point in December, has grown steadily in intensity during the past thirty days.

"This demand, superimposed upon the heavy loans on war paper, has severely taxed the resources of the Banks; the seaboard districts not having maintained their minimum reserve requirements. This acute stringency is spreading its restraining influence over general business and is not confined to speculation in securities, but to a marked degree speculation in commodities.

"There is no diminution in general buying by consumers, and retailers report unprecedented sales in January and February. In the main retailers have great difficulty in replenishing their stock, while factories and mills are sold well ahead at exceedingly high prices. The consensus of opinion is, barring a few decreases in certain food products, is unlikely to come to perceptible relief for some time to come."

Raw Silk Lower

The price of raw silk which has sold as high as $18 a pound has declined to $15 in New York. The latter figure compares with $3.85 a pound, which was the price a year ago.

Dividend Declarations

J. R. Whipple Corporation declared quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the first preferred stock, payable March 15 to stock of record February 21.

International Lead Company declared quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, on common, payable March 31 to holders of record March 15.

New York Air Brake Company declared quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent., payable March 24 to stockholders of record March 2.

American Beet Sugar Company declared dividend of $2.50 a share, placing the stock on a $10 annual basis. The dividend is payable April 1 to holders of record March 15.

Sterling Company declared quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on second preferred, payable April 1 to stock of record March 15.

Cuticle Company declared quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on common and 1¾ per cent. payable March 15 to holders of record February 28.

Republic Iron & Steel declared quarterly 1½ per cent. dividend on common and 1¾ per 1 to stock of record April 24, and regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable April 1, to stock or record March 15.

American International Corp. declared forty dividend of $1.50 on common and preferred, payable April 15 to stock of record March 15.

Otis Elevator Company declared monthly cash dividend of ¼ of 1 per cent. on preferred, ¼ of 1 per cent. on common and ¼ of 1 per cent on preference B stock, and the monthly dividend on 1½ per cent. on common, payable on common stock at par; all dividends payable April 15 to stock of record March 31.

WHO'S WHO
BOSTON'S NEW POLICE FORCE

CAPTAIN THOMAS C. EVANS.

Captain Thomas C. Evans is a real veteran of the Boston police department. At the present time he is the senior captain and in token of that distinction Commissioner Curtis has named him as inspector of divisions.

In reality he is in command of the City Prison. Prior to being sent on that detail he was in command of the City Point, South Boston, station. And before visiting that extremity of the city he was in charge of police affairs in East Boston.

Captain Evans' latest detail places on him the responsibility of visiting the different police divisions at night, after the captains have left, and completing an inspection. He has the right to criticise, detail and make recommendations for improvements.

Workmen Wear Silk Shirts

Secretary Louis B. Tims of the Manhattan Shirt Company says his concern has shirt orders for spring delivery totalling $12,000,000, and that about half of this business is in silk shirts. They will sell from $2 to $25 apiece. He says workmen are now wearing silk shirts while wealthy men are content with more serviceable garments.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

President Is Saved From Fatal Blunder by Hearst Newspapers

President Wilson's Shipping Board has surrendered. Its sale of the German fleet to an Anglo-Wall Street syndicate is declared off.

That syndicate will continue to operate its own fleet, capitalized at $154,600,000, under the British flag.

It will not get the much more valuable German fleet, including the finest ships in the world, by private sale from the United States Government for $28,000,000.

We have never seen a finer, quicker or more overwhelming response of patriotic sentiment than the answer to the appeal of the Hearst papers, begun only eight days ago.

Protests in great volume to Congress and the White House came from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the far North to the Gulf States.

Four State Legislatures adopted resolutions expressing indignation.

The United States Senate suspended all other important business and devoted an afternoon to debating this sacrifice of the public property and prestige of the United States to the purposes of an Anglo-Wall Street ship syndicate, operating under the British flag.

The head of the United States Shipping Board appeared before the Senate Commerce Committee to make apologetic explanations which did not explain.

He said he never intended to give up the ships to any but Americans and he never thought the flag would be pulled down by the syndicate that he was dealing with.

When the able Senator Jones, chairman of the Senate Committee, asked what guarantee he had exacted or could give to the Senate that the syndicate would not later sell the ships to a foreign government or operate them under the British flag, under the direction of a British chairman of the board, as its other ships now were, the chairman of the United States Shipping Board admitted that he knew of no way of preventing that.

The president of the insignificant American unit in the British-Wall Street syndicate's shipping pool also protests that both he and it are American, and that all his stockholders are Americans.

If so, the American would like to know why the shares in his company, the International Navigation Company (American Line), are issued in pounds sterling instead of in dollars, and why it put this provision in its by-laws:

The British vessels shall remain British, not merely nominally, but in reality. A majority of the directors of the English subsidiary companies shall be of British nationality, the vessels shall fly the British flag, their officers shall be British, and a reasonable portion of their crews shall be drawn from the same nation.

President Wilson may well inquire of his Shipping Board how it happened that its secret deal with this syndicate (90 per cent. British and 10 per cent. American) had gone so far, in advance of the pretended auction that has now been called off after its exposure by the Hearst papers, that THE SYNDICATE'S EMPLOYES WERE ALREADY ON BOARD, READY TO TAKE OVER THE PEERLESS VATERLAND, AND HAD ACTUALLY RAISED THEIR HOUSE FLAG OVER HER AS A SIGN OF OWNERSHIP.

What a travesty this act made of the pretended auction!

What a mockery it made of President Wilson's Shipping Board, whose head he has just promoted to his Cabinet!

What a sham it made of Mr. Wilson's message to Congress six years ago, asking for a great appropriation to build American ships, in American shipyards, to be owned by the Government, so that this nation might have a merchant marine under the American flag and no longer be dependent upon foreign owned, built and operated ships for our foreign commerce, which was even then four thousand million dollars annually. It now exceeds ten billion dollars annually.

A few months after Mr. Wilson sent that message to Congress the war came.

When, in April, 1918, Great Britain, with "back to the wall," sent the despairing call for Americans, more Americans, and still more Americans to save her broken armies in France, America responded with 2,000,000 men.

A few more than half of these were transported in British ships, for which Great Britain rendered a bill of $140 per man, for transporting the army that saved the world for her!

The claim was afterward compromised, and Great Britain was actually paid $81.75 for every American soldier her ships carried, or about $87,000,000!

The Leviathan alone carried 140,000 American soldiers across seas and thus earned in a few months $11,445,000.

This vessel has no equal in the world, either in capacity or luxury as a swift express steamer, or in utility as a transport. A generation of Americans would never have forgiven President Wilson if the Hearst papers had not saved him from the folly or worse of his incapable Shipping Board of turning the Leviathan and her matchless sister ships over to a British-Wall Street syndicate.

All Should Have a Vote on This

Representative Elihu D. Stone of Boston has filed a bill for the abolition of capital punishment in Massachusetts. This always presents a very grave question. Whether we have a right to take human life for any cause, no man can say with assurance.

Concerning it, however much we may differ, a question so fundamental ought to be decided by all the people, for it is a question of morals and sentiment.

More Truth Than Poetry

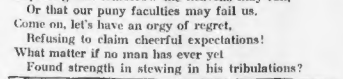
The Gloom Club

By S. E. KISER

COME, let's sit down and worry and complain;
Let's talk about our hardships and diseases;
Let's scold about the weather, and remain
Determined to be blind to all that pleases;
Let's fret about the things we are denied,
Let's plunge into a wild debauch of sorrow,
Convinced that every cause for hope has died
And looking for worse things to come tomorrow.

LET'S count our former losses, one by one,
Recalling all the chances we have wasted,
The things we didn't do, but might have done,
The sweets we might have had, but never tasted;
Let's grieve about our follies and mistakes—
The foolish acts that never can be righted,
And feel again our former pains and aches,
And hate the ones by whom we have been slighted.

LET'S yield to envy, jealousy, and all
The other morbid feelings that assail us,
Expecting that tomorrow the heavens may fall,
Or that our puny faculties may fail us.
Come on, let's have an orgy of regret,
Refusing to claim cheerful expectations!
What matter if no man has ever yet
Found strength in stewing in his tribulations?



BUT THEY WILL GO AFTER IT

The happiness that people get out of doing spiteful things to others is about as sweet as the cider that is squeezed out of crabapples.

TO Mr. K. C. B.: Dear Sir—One of the articles in your column a few years ago was concerning a boy, just out of prison, and his mother.

I was serving a term of seven years in the Clinton Prison at that time and your story touched me so that I cut it out of the paper and pasted it on my cell wall, and it was still there when I was discharged a few months ago.

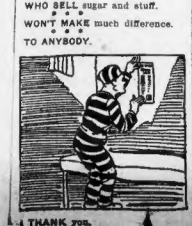
Do you know of anyone who will give me a chance to make good. All I want is a chance to work, and I feel sure that any employer will be satisfied with my service. I was born and raised in New York city and imagine I am gifted with ordinary intelligence.

I feel sure that if you will grant me an interview I can convince you of my sincerity.

Trusting you will forgive me for addressing this appeal to you, I am,

Sincerely yours,

MY DEAR Dan.
I'VE JUST had lunch.
OUT HERE in the West.
WHERE I happen to be.
FOR A month or two.
WITH A friend of mine.
WHOSE BUSINESS it was.
ONCE UPON a time.
TO BLOW open safes.
AND WE got to be friends.
SOME YEARS ago.
WHEN PRISON gates.
HAD OPENED for him.
AND HE'D come out.
AND WE found a job.
AND HE went to work.
AND HE'S working yet.
AND I took your letter.
ALONG WITH me.
WHEN I went to lunch.
AND TOM agreed.
THAT YOU should be helped.
AND IF no one writes me.
WHILE I'M still out here.
THAT THEY'LL give you a chance.
IF YOU'LL just hang on.
AND TRY and go straight.
FOR ANOTHER six weeks.
I'LL BE back home.
AND WE'LL look around.
AND FIND a way.
AND ANYWAY, Dan.
JUST ONE more burglar.
ADDED TO the burglars.
WHO SELL sugar and stuff.
WON'T MAKE much difference.
TO ANYBODY.



I THANK you.

OUR TYPE IS WHAT WE DO TO IT

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THE other day I chanced to meet a woman whom I had not seen for some time.

"Dear me!" I said, unable to conceal my surprise, for she appeared to have undergone some subtle metamorphosis. "You look as if you had stepped back twenty years or so."

She is of the small, rather insignificant type, and I remembered her as a reserved, somewhat mournful person who had seemed to melt into her background, rather than to stand out from it—one of those quiet, mouse-like creatures as easily ignored and overlooked as a chair or a table.

The Secret Revealed

But now she was different in every way. Instead of passing me with a stiff bow, she came forward as if she were really glad to see me. She was charmingly dressed and smiling, and she seemed more like a twin sister than herself; a twin sister with much more life and vivacity. Her personality didn't impress one as vague and slate-gray any longer. And the change was not merely a matter of good clothes and a becoming hat. It went deeper.

"What have you been doing to yourself?" I asked.

"Well," she replied, "I realized that I had been living for years in the shadow, and it was growing deeper all the time. People were treating me more and more as if I didn't exist, and I was very unhappy about it until one day I said to myself, 'Haven't you got enough strength of character to walk right out into the sunshine?' I did. That's all."

Consider the Canary

Dear lady, a canary bird doesn't sing when it has a dark cover over its cage; a lamp cannot shine through an opaque shade. You have shrunk so far back into the shadow and have so successfully effaced yourself that you have almost blotted yourself out. Come out into the sunshine. Don't let people ignore and overlook you. Take the centre of the stage.

Letters to the Editor

Compulsory Voting

Editor Boston American:

I'm glad to see some newspaper has "guts" enough to get up on its hind legs and call a showdown in our merchant marine affairs. By this time America ought to have a Yankee line running to every important country in the world. What has it got? A few "scrimp" sixty-day freighters. America ought to have the greatest merchant fleet on the seas.

Dr. Southard's Work

Editor Boston American:

Please accept my appreciation of the very fine review of Dr. Southard's work in the American, and the personal tribute which formed your reviewer's caption.

Dr. Southard was a man who devoted his life to mental hygiene. To him mental hygiene included everything that was good; the moral, mental and physical well-being of the individual, the family and the State. It is the subject of the present and the future. I believe that he laid its foundations so deep, inspired his co-workers with such enthusiasm, and gave the Commonwealth of Massachusetts such pride of leadership that his work will go on so far as the humble publisher of his books and those who have reviewed them have continued their good work. We are entitled to that much satisfaction.

Air Graft Program Not Air Craft
How Many Great Men?
Aguinaldo and Washington

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1920.)

Did you read carefully the report of the Congressional Committee investigating the spending and stealing of money in connection with the so-called "air craft" program of the United States government?

Can you imagine anything more discouraging for those who hope to see democratic government established finally on an honest basis?

The Secretary of War chose some of the richest citizens of the United States to spend the money contributed by all the people of the United States for the country's defence.

Perhaps he thought that because they were rich they would be honest, being able to afford it.

The government spent for flying machines a billion and a quarter, and all it actually got was 314 "clumsy, utterly dangerous" machines made by the government, and 637 machines bought from the Allies. At $20,000 apiece, more than it cost to make them, those machines have cost less than fifteen million dollars, which leaves more than one thousand two hundred millions unaccounted for.

A few of the thousand millions are accounted for. Some worthless machines were built by ignoramuses, in one case as many as a thousand changes in the plans. These machines were scrapped.

A high, honorable gentleman, extracted from Wall Street to help his country in time of war, is said by the Congressional Committee to have built a railroad useful to another railroad in which he is a high official.

When the first appropriation for flying machines was made in Congress, this writer printed a paragraph in the Washington Times as follows:

"Six hundred millions for flying machines! How much of it for graft?"

Indignation was expressed that such base suspicion should exist. It turns out that the whole six hundred millions were for graft, and that wasn't enough, six hundred other millions were added to it.

Men are now in war going to sleep, neglecting the interests of their country. Wouldn't it be justice if a few were shot for remaining wide awake, robbing their country, sending across the ocean flying machines that endangered lives and destroyed lives, and making a joke of the efficiency and honesty of so-called representative citizens?

Next Sunday the world will celebrate the birthday of George Washington.

It is cheerful to remember in these days of Wall Street patriots and thieves that the United States has had men that would not steal, no matter how tempting the opportunity. It is pleasing also for the comfort of many honest rich men that live in the United States today to remember that Washington was the richest man in the United States. This did not inspire him with any desire to rob his country and get more money.

How many really great men are there in history? Who can mention twenty-four, aside from science, art and literature, whose names will live a thousand years hence?

Take out the fighters, who distinguished themselves by killing other men, or whose successful wars forced knowledge on ignorant peoples, and it is difficult to name one dozen.

Washington undoubtedly will live, not merely for what he did, establishing that which, in numbers and wealth at least, is the greatest country in the world. He will live for what he himself was.

Public inability to estimate greatness, when close by, is illustrated in this fact:

Twenty years ago, with the Spanish War still interesting us, there were newspapers of the would-be "better sort" actually comparing Washington with a certain Aguinaldo.

Today the average youthful person asks who Aguinaldo was? It seems hard to think that a half Chinese little gentleman, alleged to be on the Spanish payroll in addition to being a Filipino patriot, should be compared to Washington.

However, about a year ago hundreds of newspapers in the United States were comparing certain statesmen of our time with Washington and Lincoln. Sometimes putting Washington second and Lincoln third in the patriotic trinity.

Time trens things out.

Public opinion also has a soothing influence, and actually interferes with some of the best laid plans of mice and thieves.

The Shipping Board now recommends that the scheme for selling German vessels to an English company for less than one-quarter of their value be abandoned and that the ships be operated under the American flag.

What is the matter with the men selected by the people to protect their interests at Washington when it is necessary for the Hearst newspapers to stop the kind of a steal that ought to make a professional pickpocket blush?
